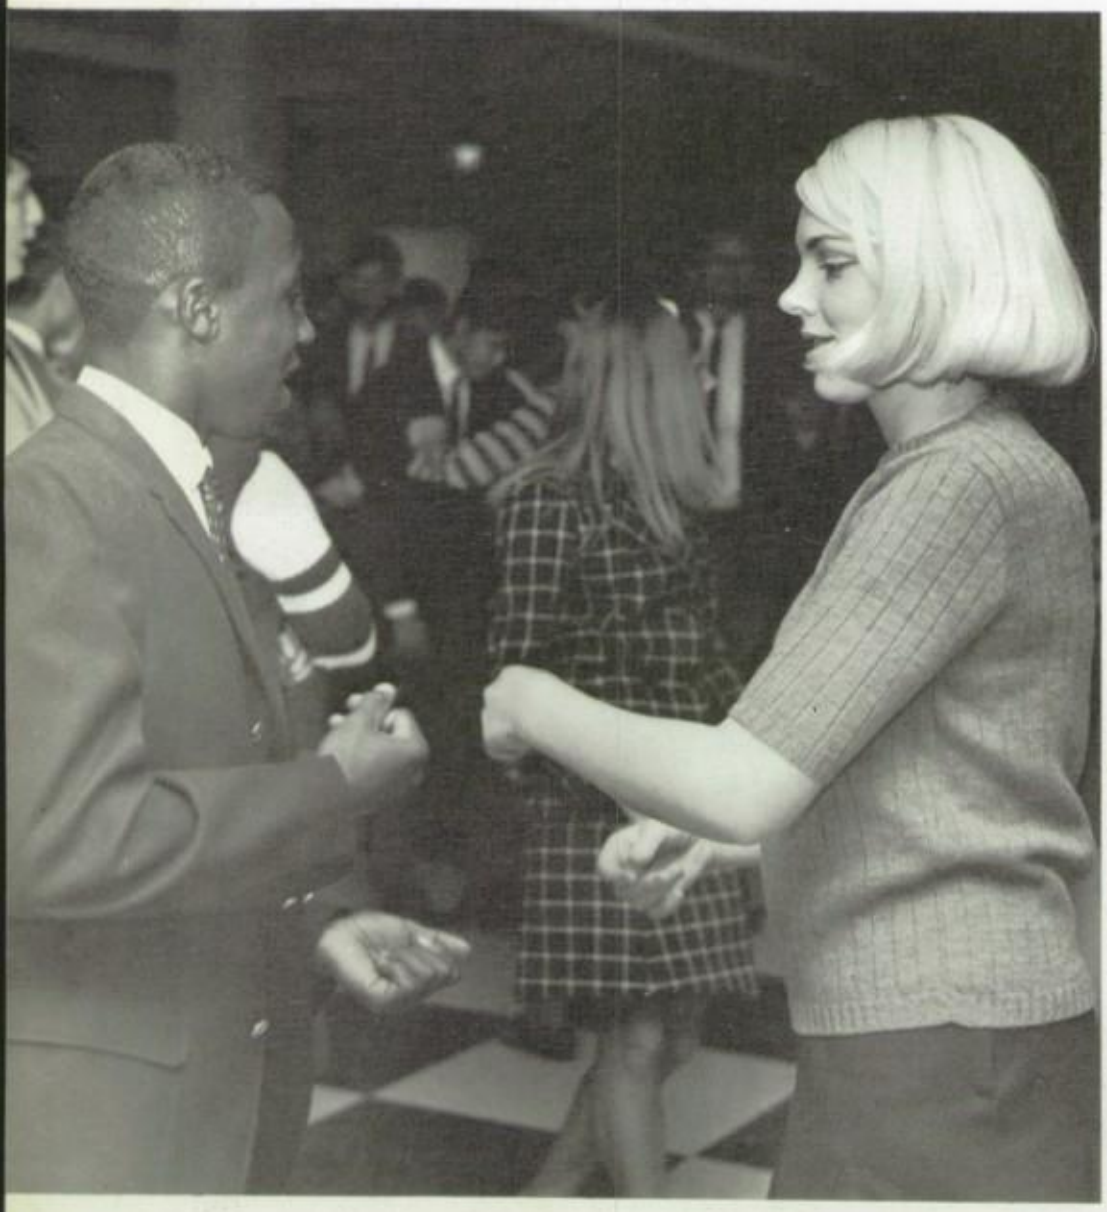
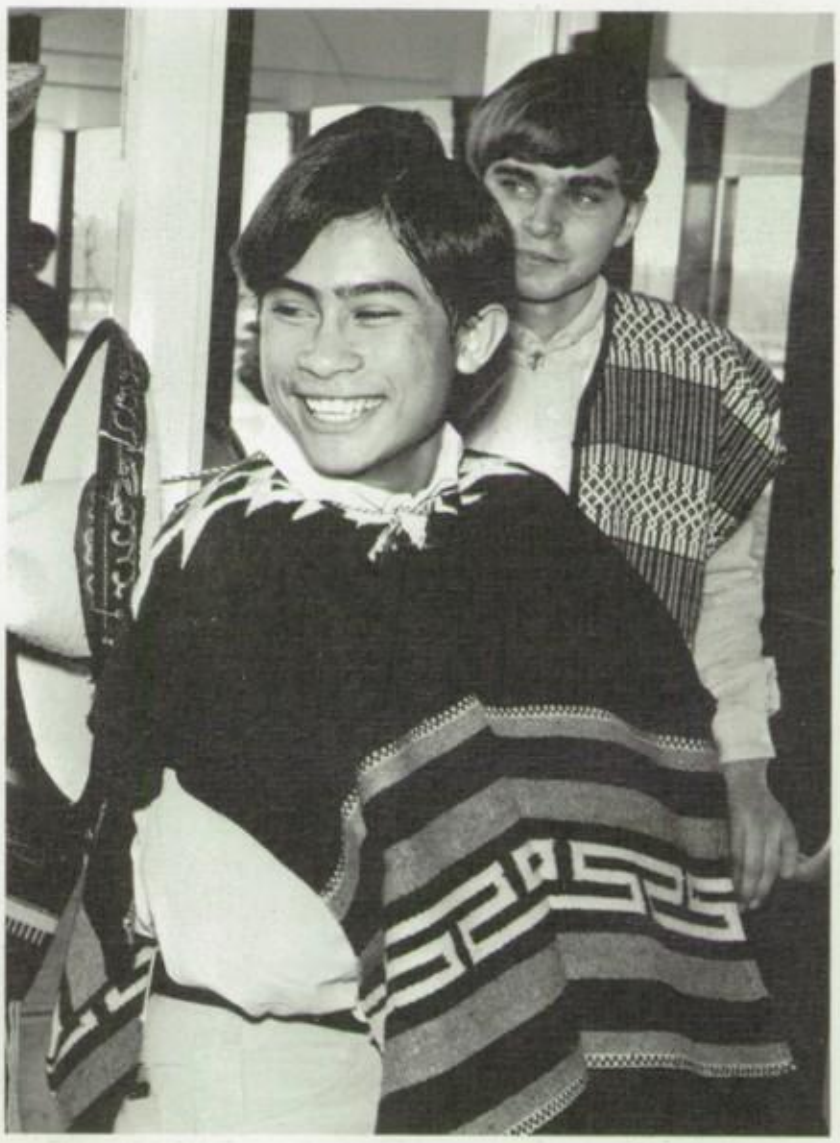
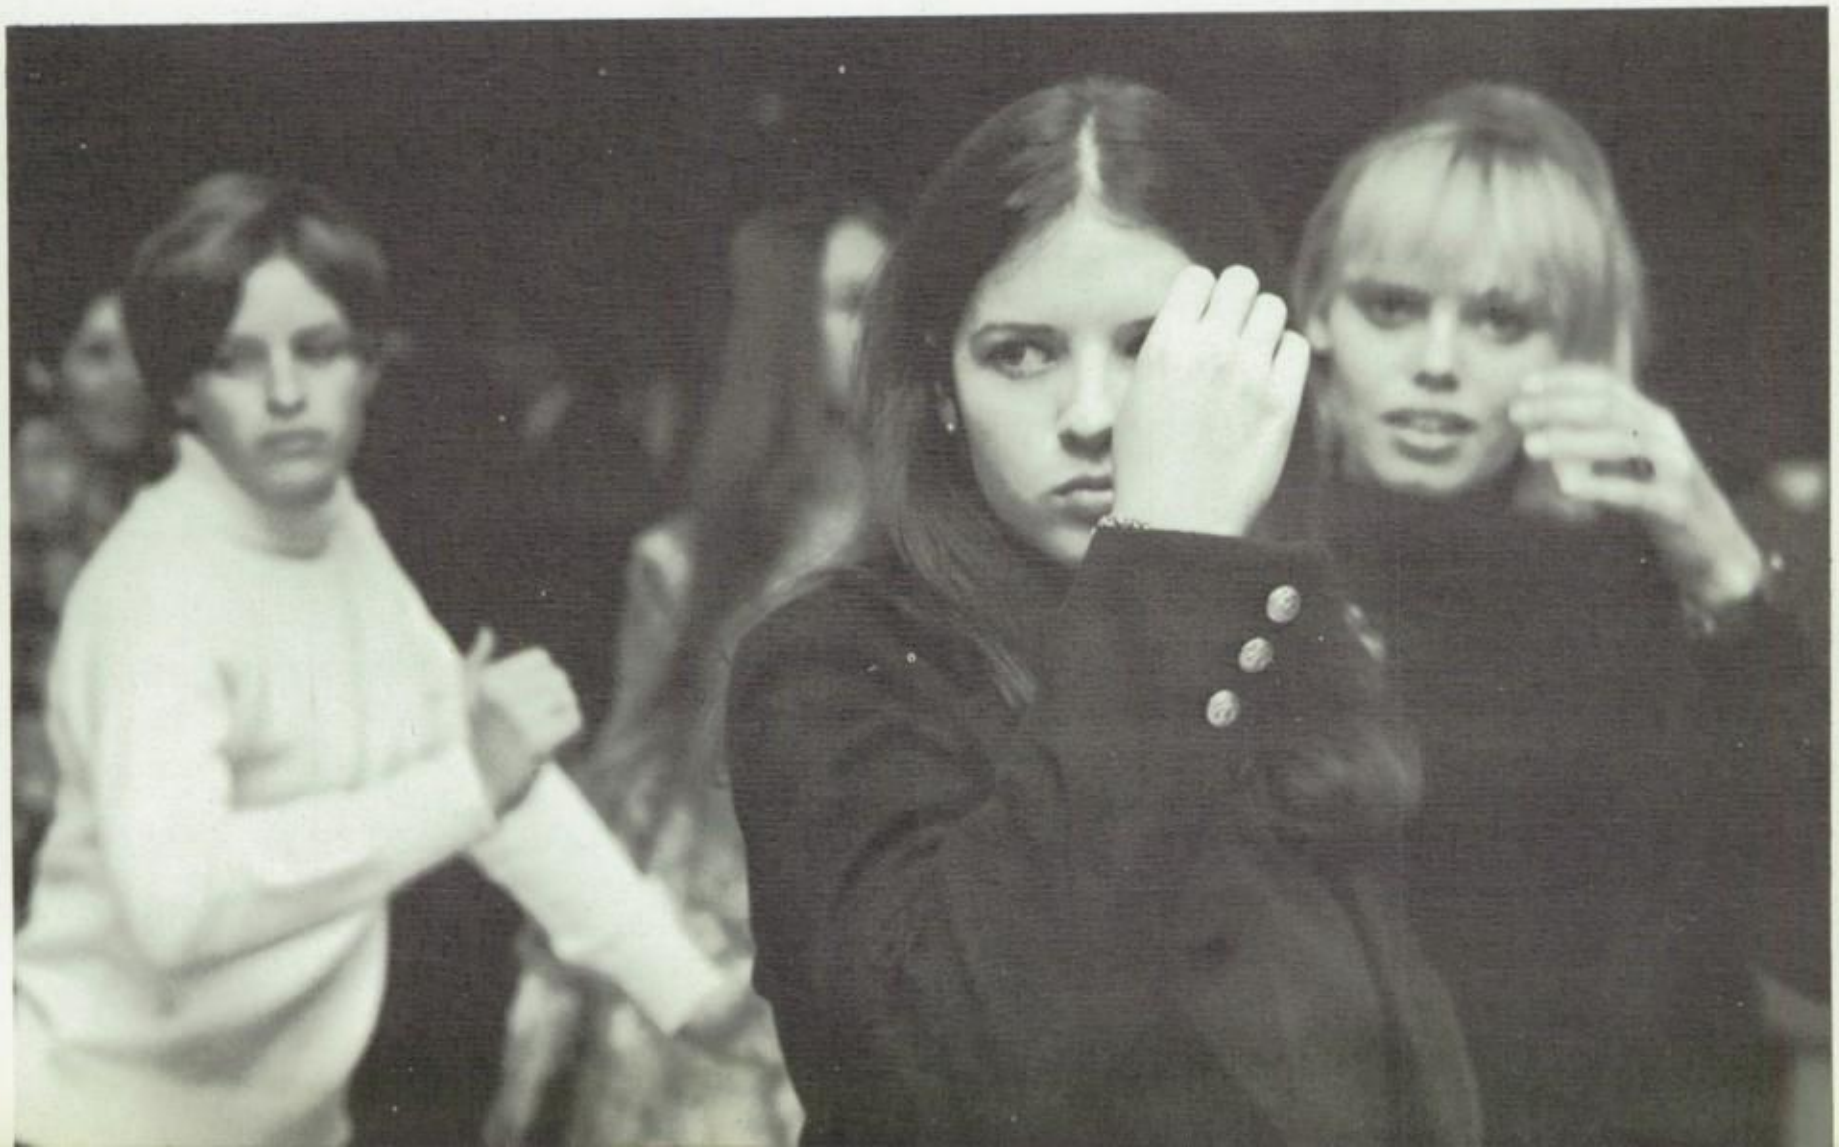
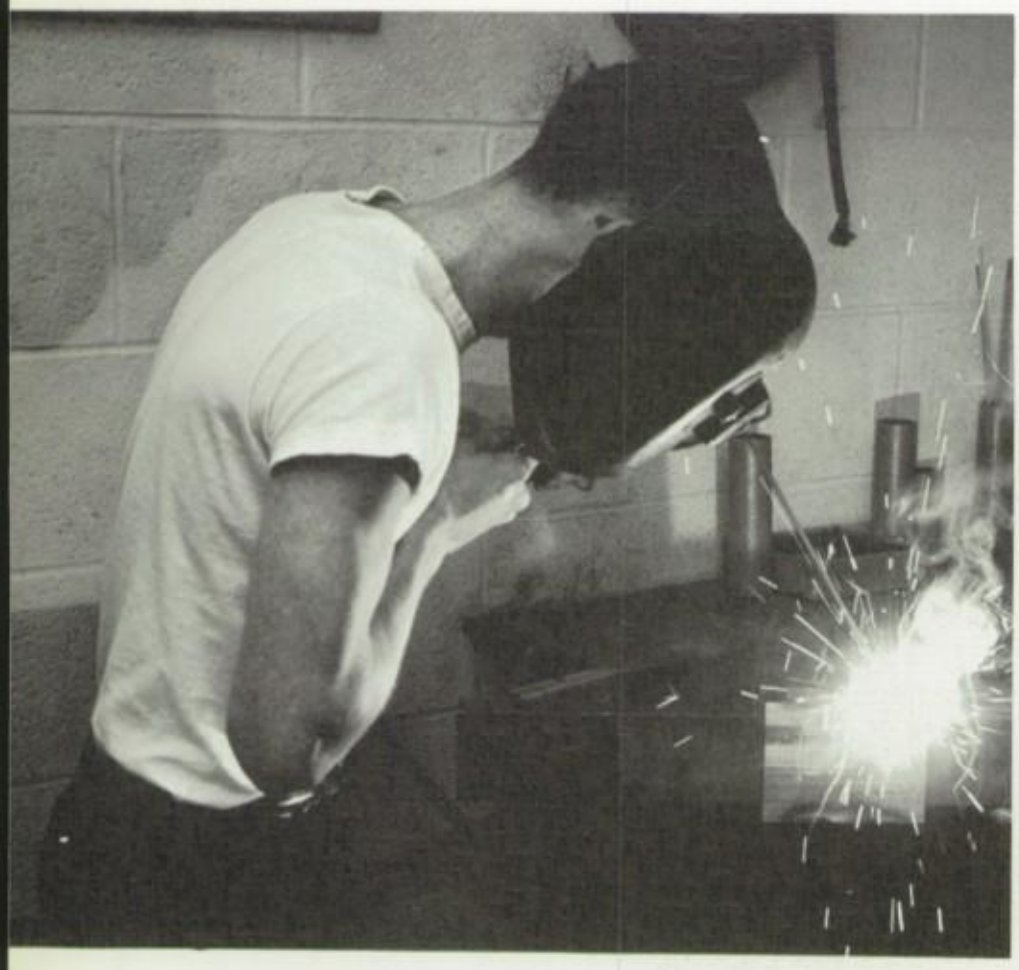
Colerain High School is 2,000 people. Each one different from all the others but all having a common goal —to learn: from books, from experiences, from each other.



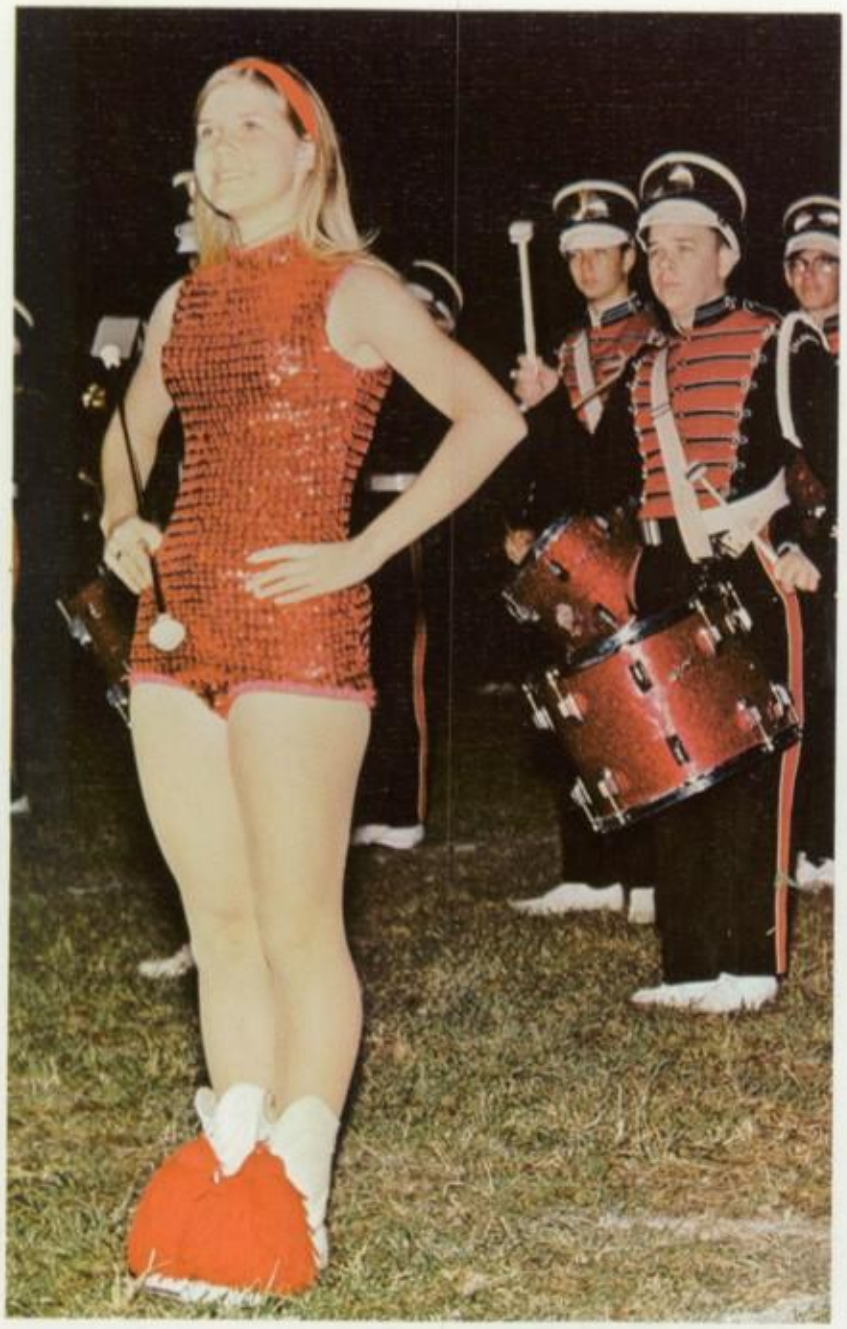


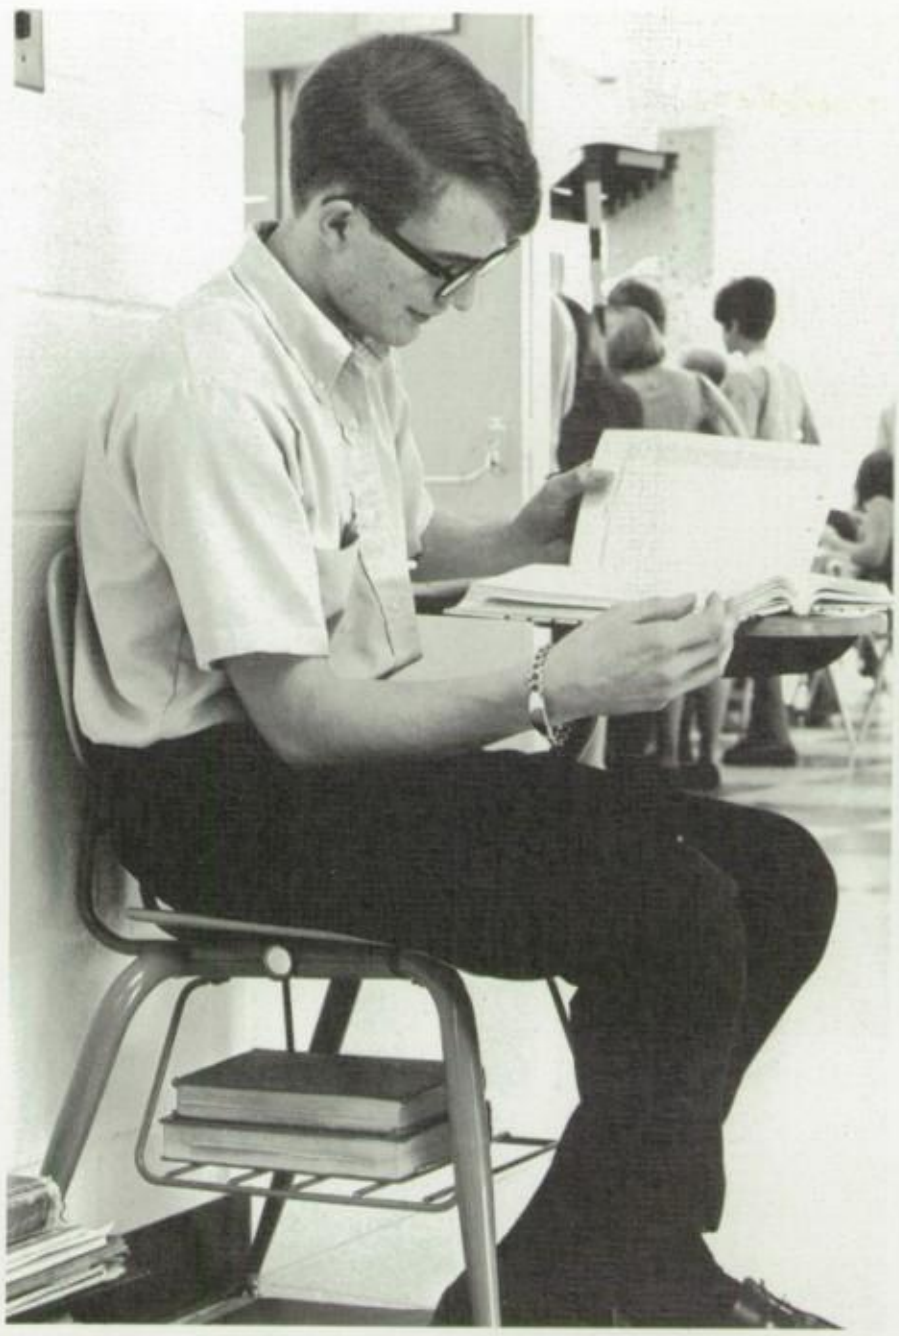
There are 2,000 people: teachers, advisors, coaches, administrators, and students. All striving to prepare the youth of today for the world of tomorrow.





At Colerain High School there are 2,000 people, each learning from all the others. Listening. Doubting. Questioning the System. Forming ideas and ideals to shape their lives. Working—for grades, for skills, for wisdom. Learning.





Colerain is 2,000 people working together to produce something worthy. Forgetting themselves for the welfare of the group and yet growing as individuals. Learning, practicing, striving for perfection.

Working to bring honor to themselves,

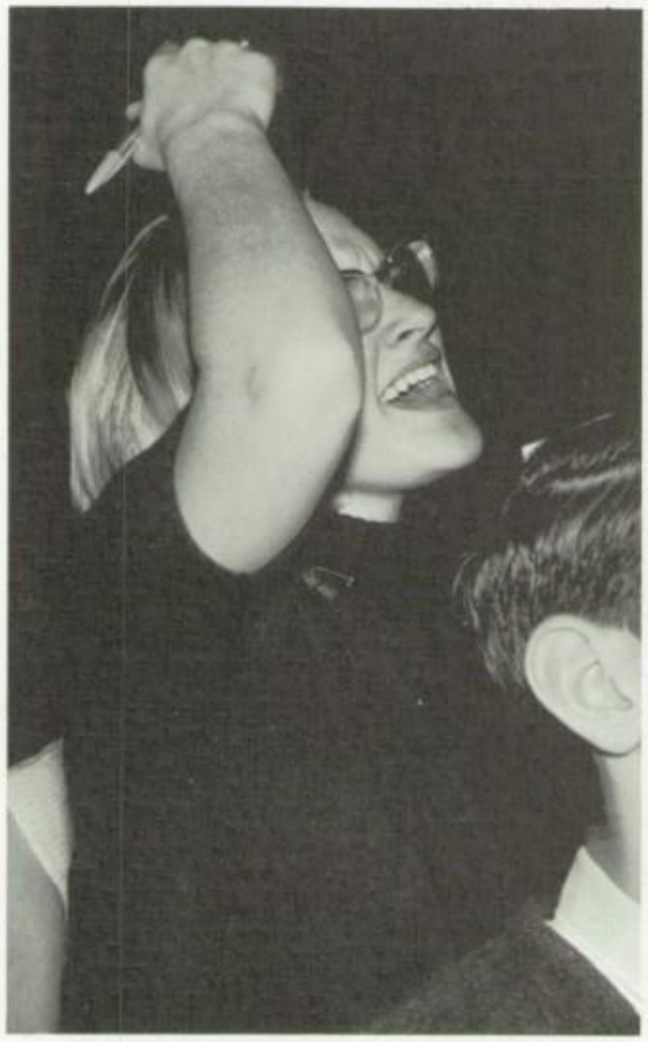
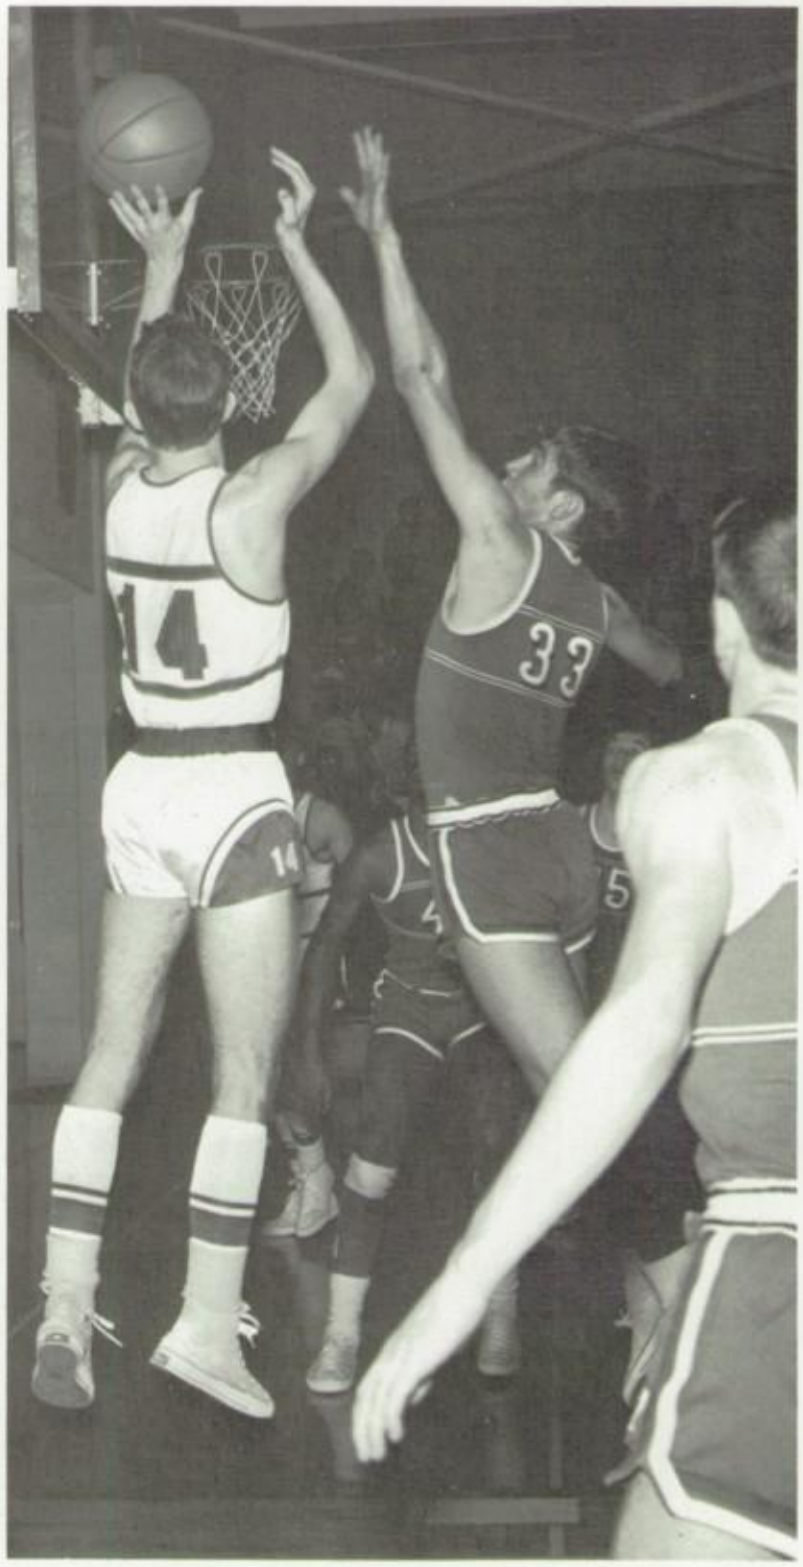
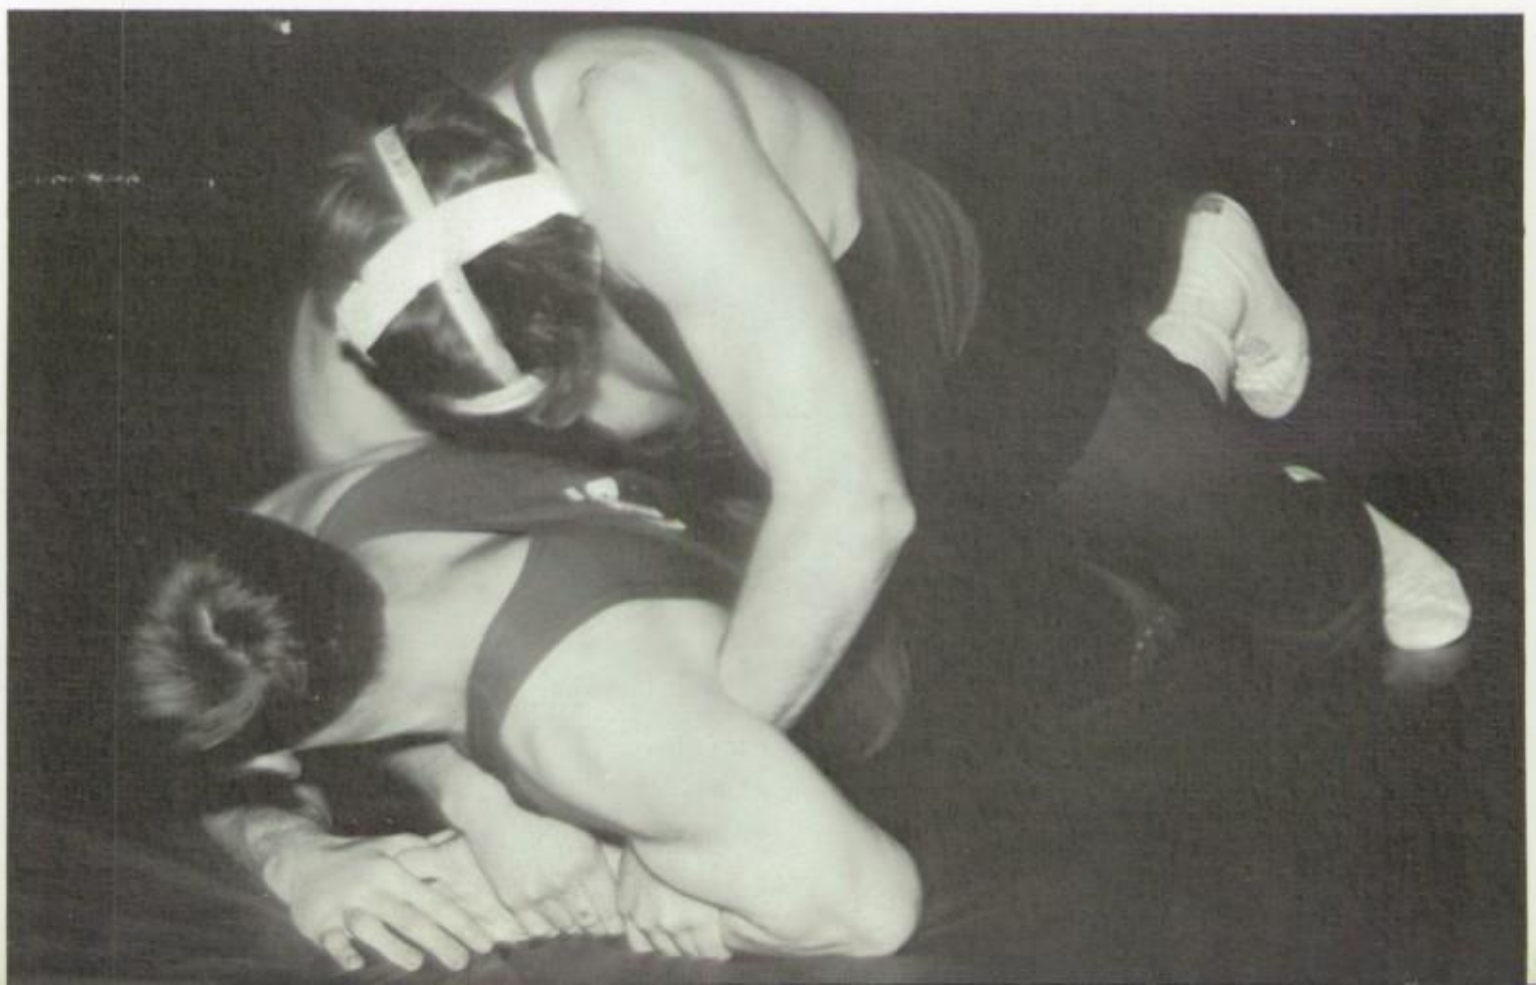
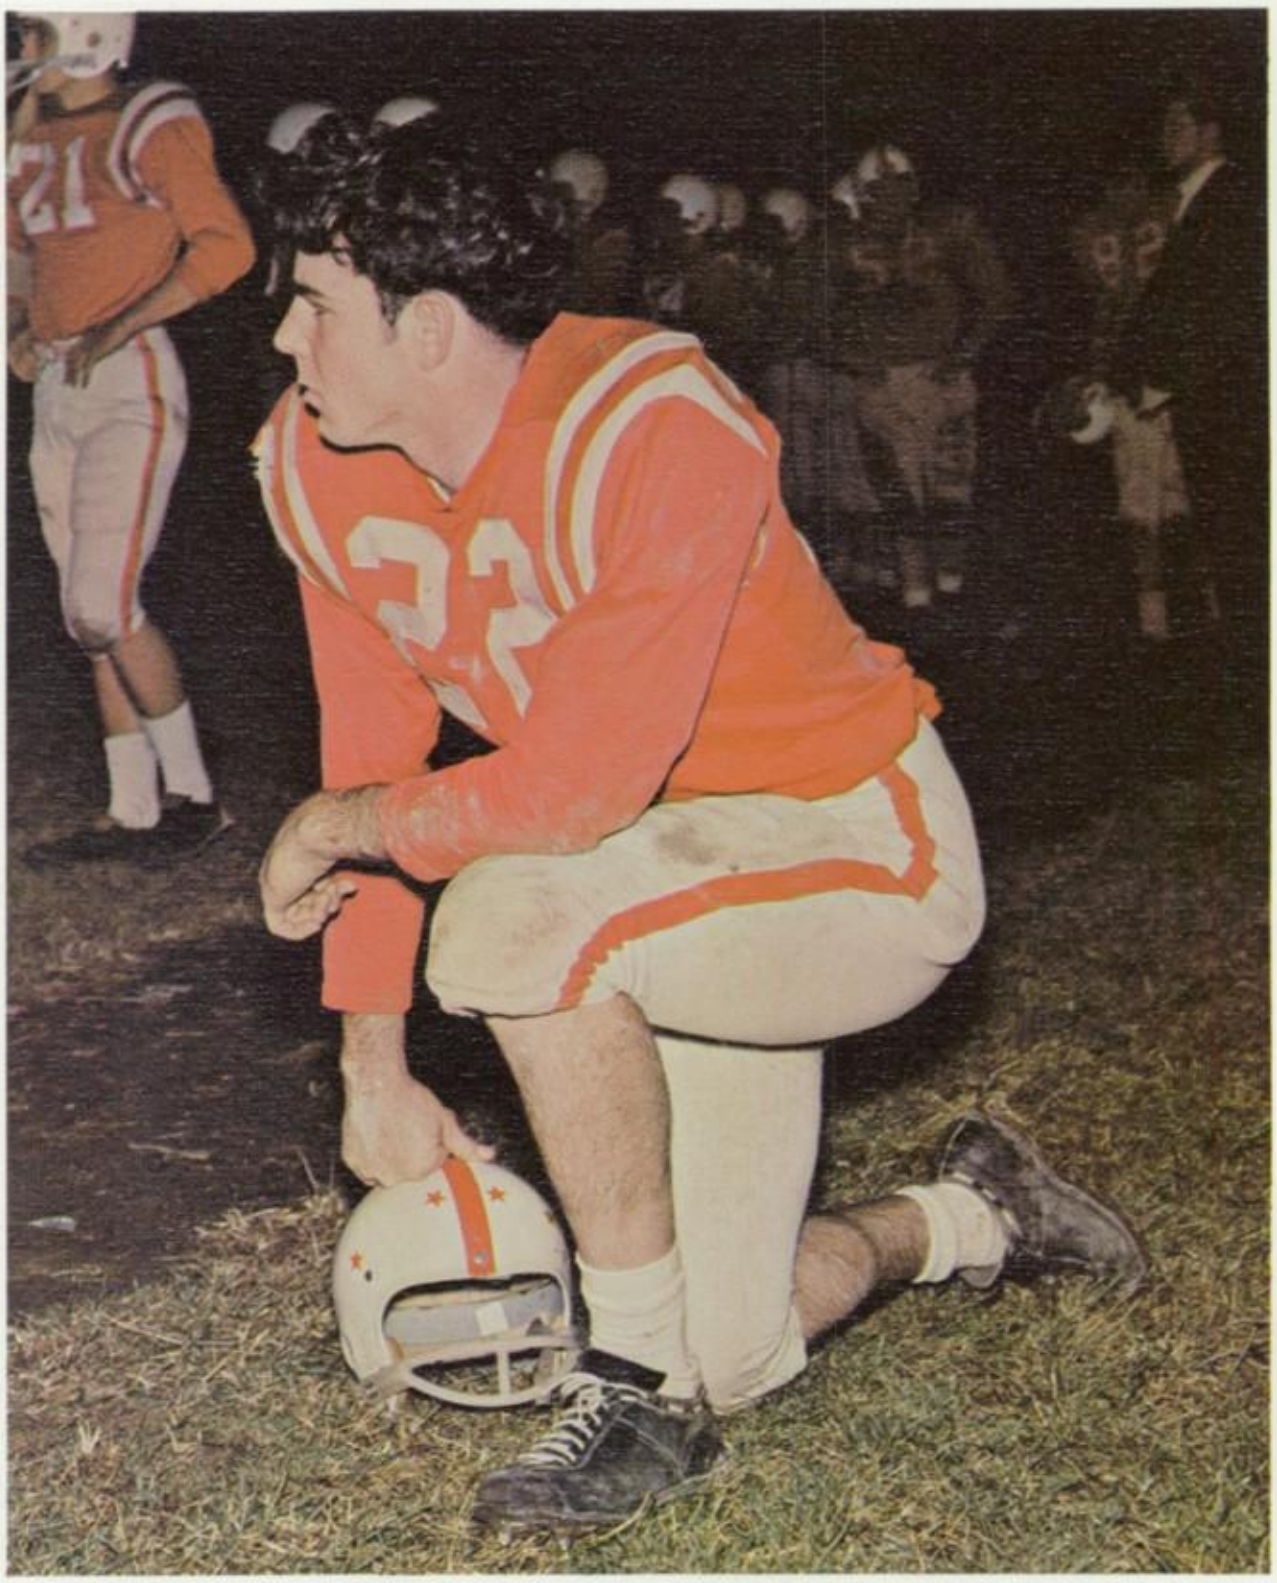
At Colerain there are 2,000 people working together to bring victory to the Cards. For many there are long, hard hours of tackling, pitching, running. For others—painting posters, making buttons, learning cheers. Together boldly facing the opponent.



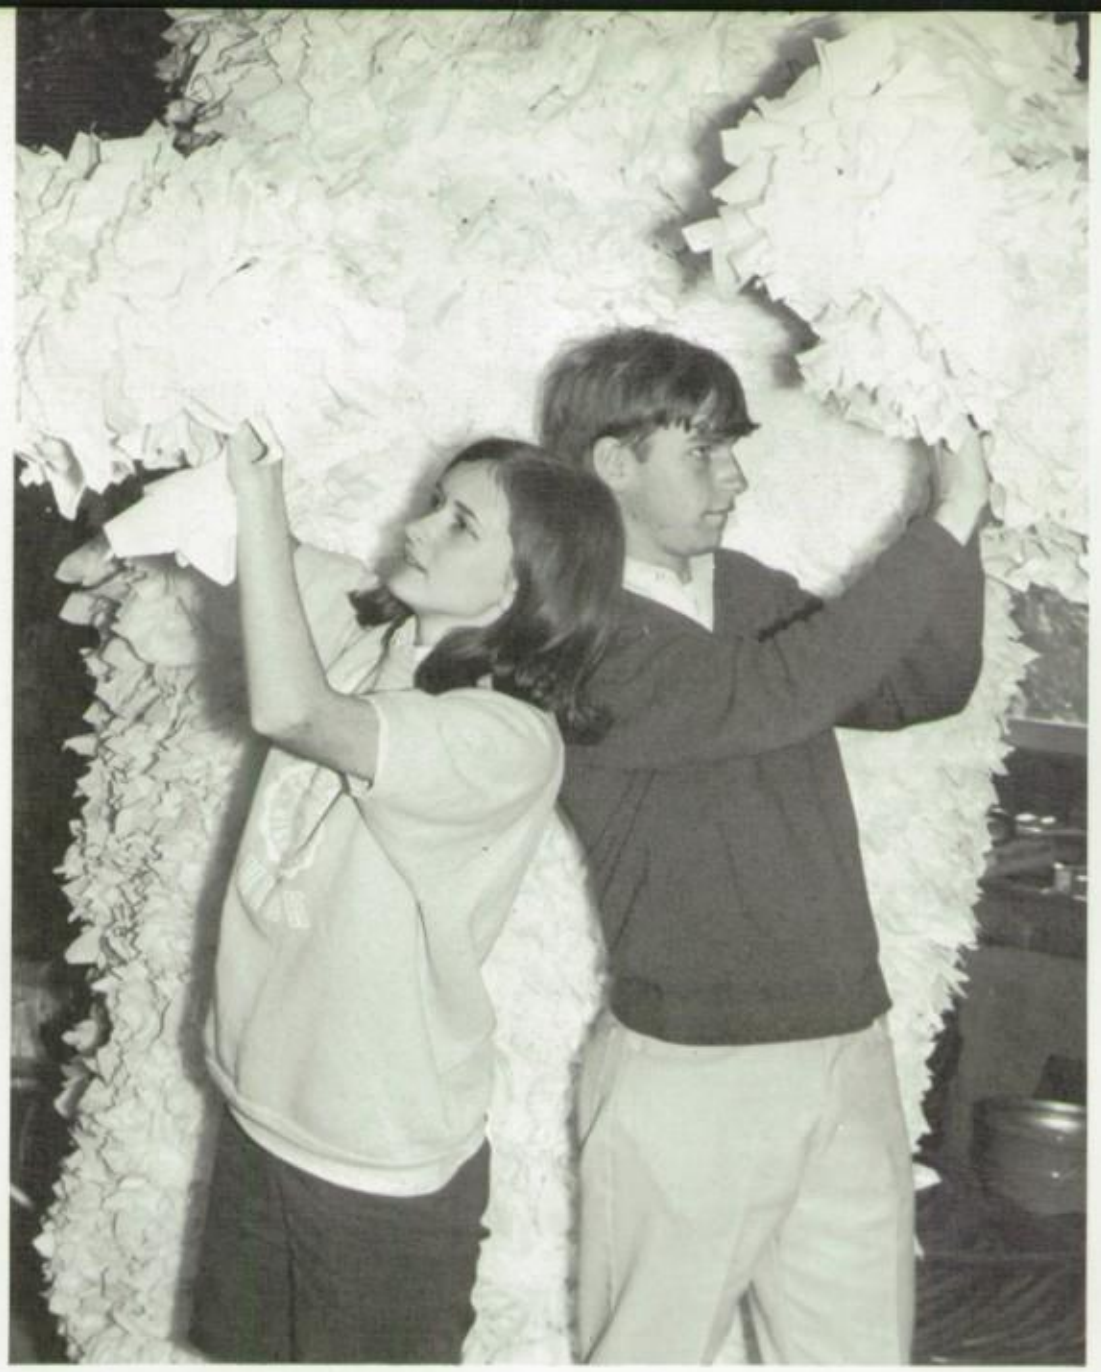


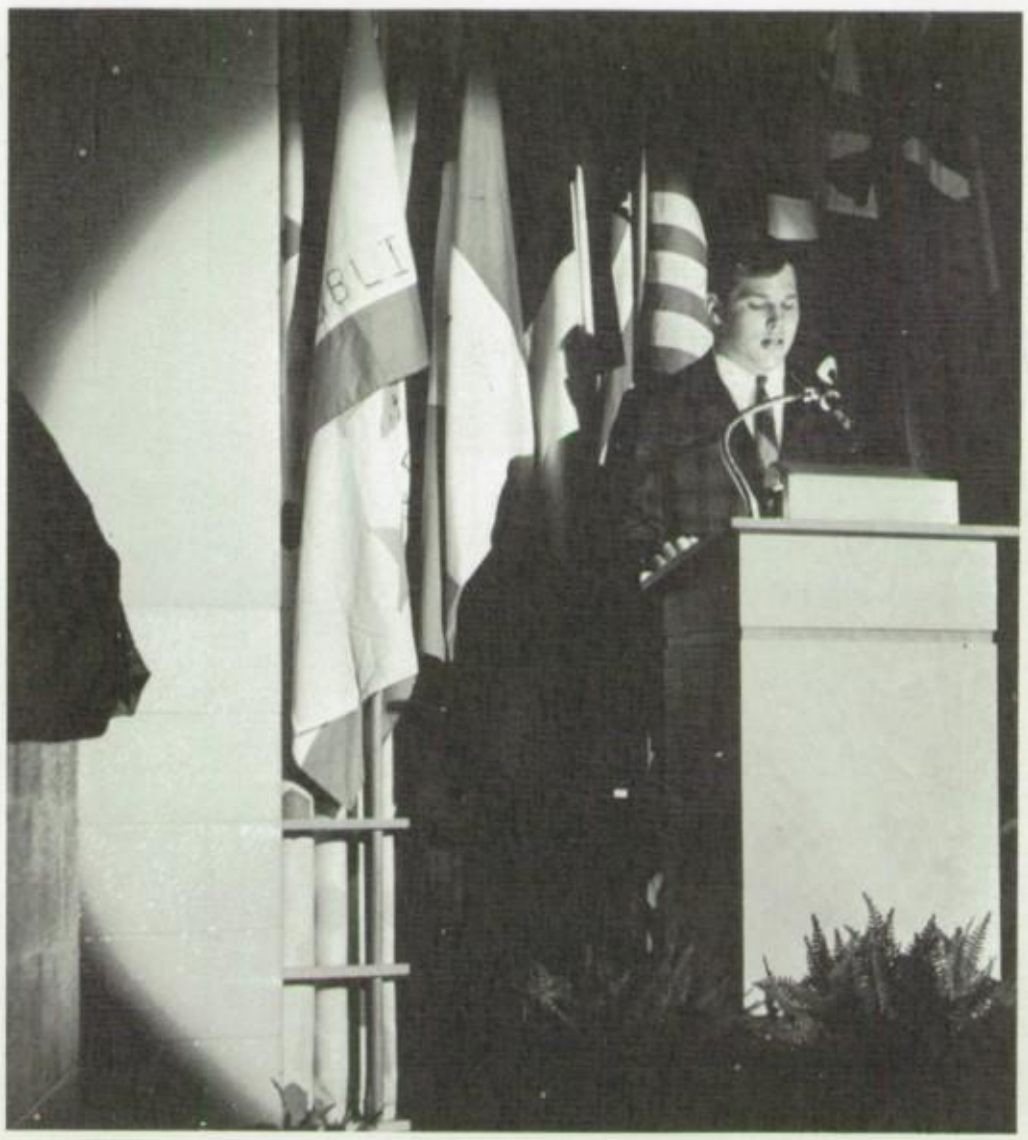


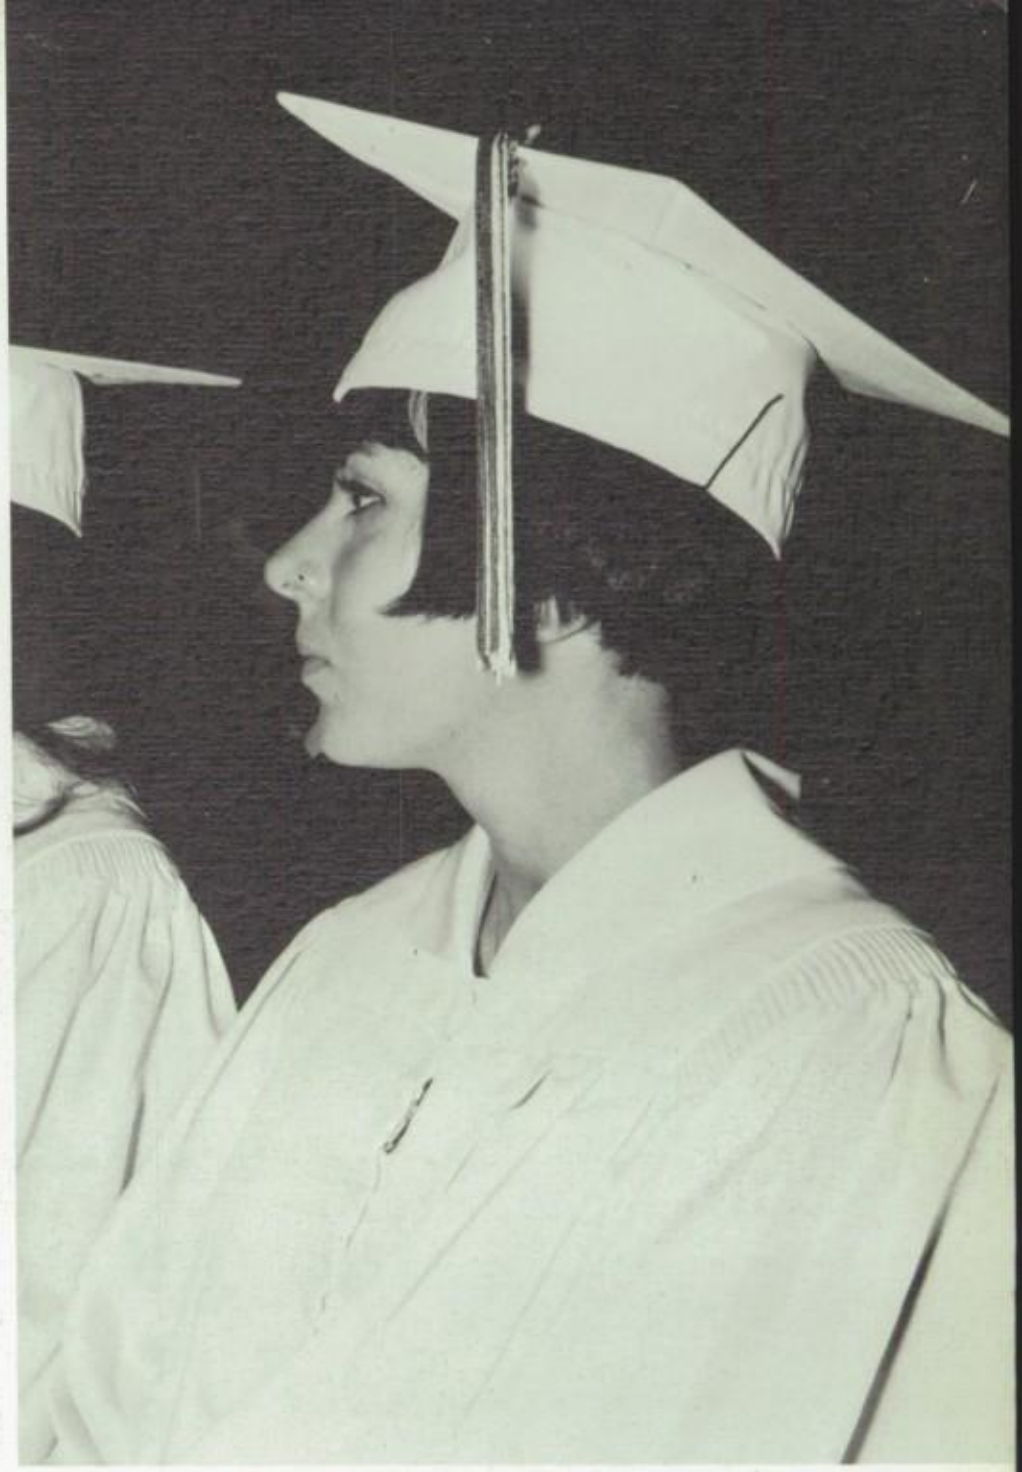
There are dedicated athletes running, sweating, hoping. Learning to swallow bitter defeat. Working that much harder to taste victory the next time.



Colerain High School is 2,000 people living with tradition. Treasuring the old and learning from it yet changing it to fit the new. Remembering. Celebrating the traditional holidays and events while adding to them a bit of 1968.

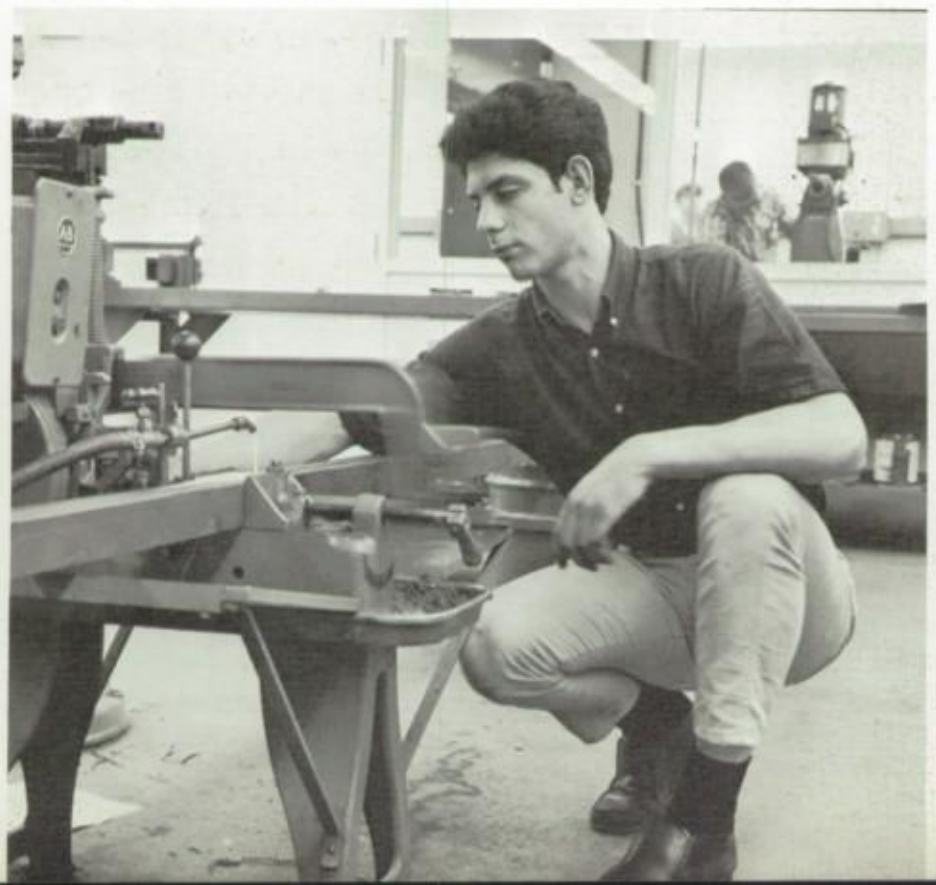


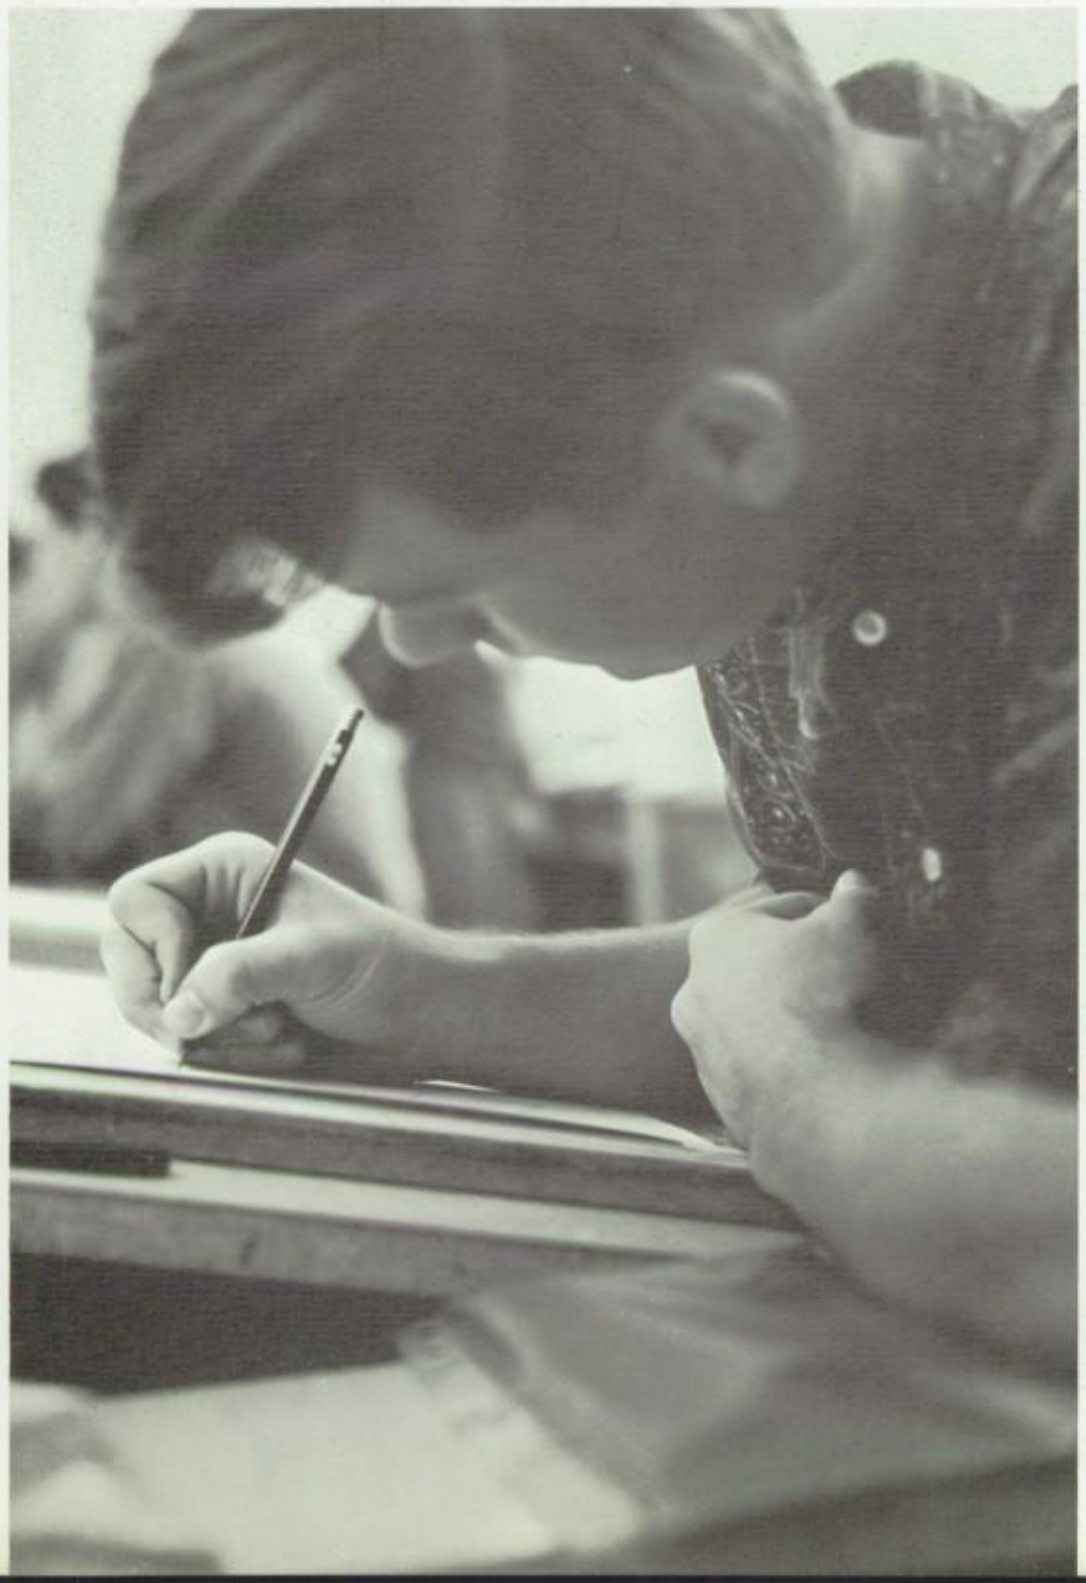




Recalling the significance of the events and learning from it—learning about others bonded in this common observance of tradition and more important, learning about themselves. There are 2,000 people honoring the past and using it to better understand the present.

Colerain is 2,000 people; the students divided into three classes. There are sophomores—g i g g l i n g, learning, trying to find a place for themselves in their new environment. There are juniors—studying, taking innumerable tests, working to assume their roles of leadership the next year.





There are seniors—planning, applying to universities, wondering what the next year will bring—college, a job, Vietnam. Each class working alone in their separate roles at Colerain and yet all working together to achieve the goals they have set for their high school.

SUPERINTENDENT: MR. EDMOND HAMMOND

Again this year Mr. Edmond Hammond served as the superintendent of the Northwest Local School District. Although his duties were varied and quite numerous, he performed each task with great efficiency and tremendous skill. His diligence and determination were two vital characteristics which enabled him to carry on the leadership of the school district.

Under the able leadership of President Raymond Hensley, the School Board worked very closely with Mr. Hammond. They met once a month and made plans to provide for the best possible education for the Northwest School District.

Leaders determine district policies

SCHOOL BOARD: James Benedict, Hubert Goetz, Raymond Hensley, Ruth Koehler, Edward Moeller, Joseph Presnell.

A high school, like any other institution, demands good leadership to be effective and well-run. As principal of Colerain Senior High School, Mr. Ross H. Fleming ably supplied the guidance and dedication which the school required during the school year 1967-68. His duties, which ranged from determining school policies to addressing the graduating class, brought both responsibility and criticism which he readily accepted.

Growth in every aspect has marked Colerain during Mr. Fleming's years as principal. The growth in the school's size, curriculum, and fine reputation has been a credit to the community, the school board, and ultimately to the principal, Mr. Fleming.

Mrs. Styles co-ordinates outside activities

At Colerain the job of Assistant Principal is a very complex and interesting one. For the past several years this position has been occupied by a dedicated and able administrator—Mrs. Corinne Styles.

For the school year 1967-68 her official duties included the co-ordination of all extra-curricular activities, the approving of projects planned by the various organizations at school, and the sponsorship of Student Council and Presidents' Council. At times she assumed duties outside her official capacity by making her office the sounding board for student complaints of school policy and an exchange of ideas for improving it. For the club presidents and active leaders of 1967-68 Mrs. Styles provided the necessary link between the administration and the student body.

Dean administers school policies

It was the duty of Mr. Charles Kern, Dean of Students, to enforce the various rules of conduct necessary to maintain order at Colerain. He was responsible, to a great extent, for the fine reputation the students had gained throughout the school district. Besides maintaining discipline, Mr. Kern was in charge of absenteeism, and generally aided in the administration of the school. His position, though often thankless, was nevertheless vital to the efficient running of Colerain.

DEAN OF STUDENTS: MR. CHARLES KERN

Counselors offer sound advice

Mr. Earley reviews rules from the Student Handbook with Ralph Robinson.

Whenever a girl had a problem of any kind, she knew she could turn to either of two people —Mrs. Holley or Miss Cooke. The girl's counselors were always available to answer questions on colleges, career choices or personal matters. After a visit to the guidance office things always seemed to take on a brighter outlook.

The advising of boys requires a combination of discipline and understanding. It is necessary that they understand and try to find an answer or solution to their problems. The boys of Colerain found that Mr. Hacker and Mr. Earley were quite capable and willing to assist them in any way they could.

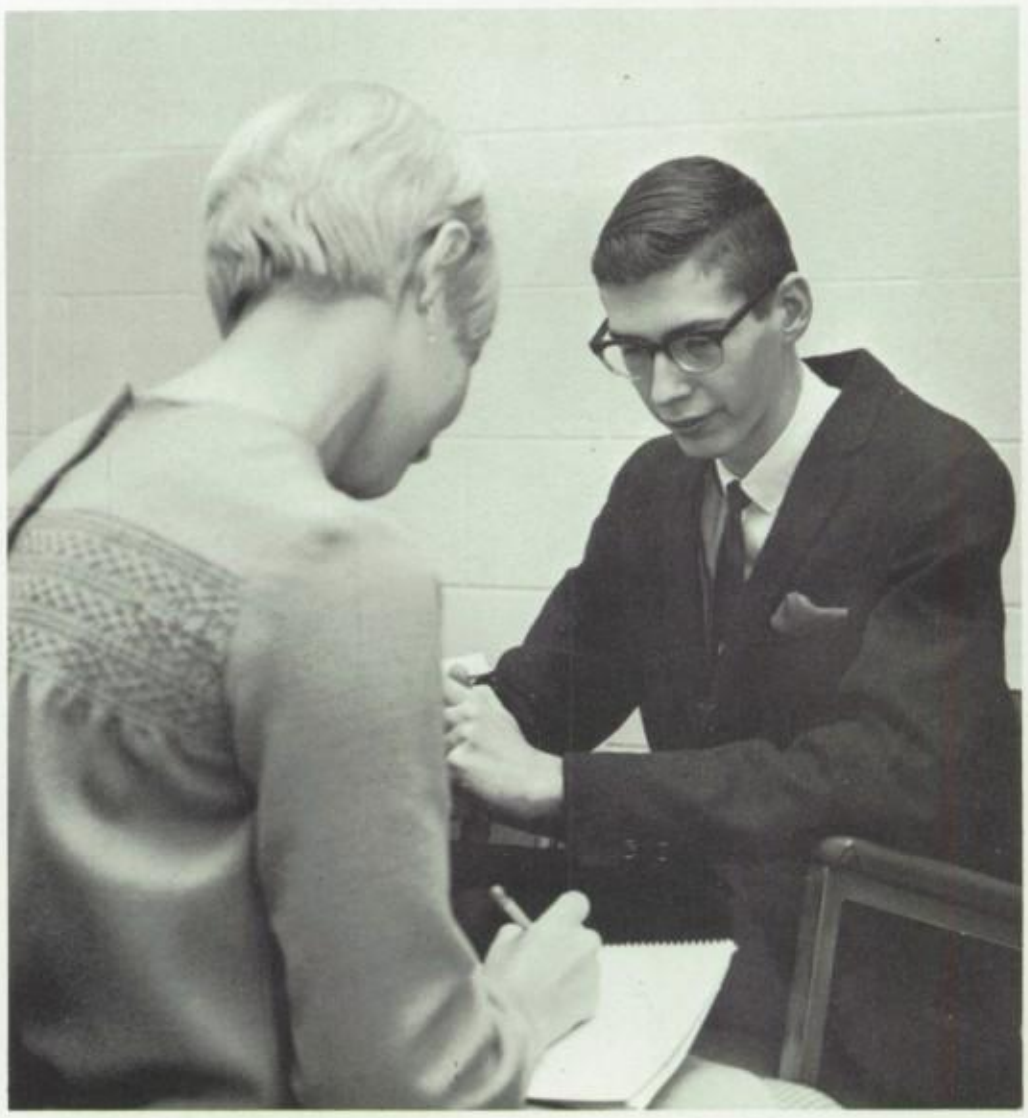
Carolyn Richards takes dictation for Mr. Hacker.



Teachers stimulate student interest

A student receives the major part of his education from books and classroom lectures, from discussing different ideas and taking notes and tests. It is from these studies that he will acquire the skill and knowledge to derive a satisfying vocation. For this guidance, he depends largely upon his teachers.

Colerain was fortunate this year in having a diversified and competent faculty, able to meet the academic needs of its students. It was through their teachers that the students of CHS were encouraged to seek the skills and knowledge that will help to mold their lives.

DIETICIAN: MISS LINDNER

SCHOOL NURSE: MRS. JACOBS

Teachers, students, and administrators do not solely comprise a high school. Just as important to the effective management of such an institution are the people who work "behind the scenes."

The lunchroom staff helped with the maintenance of Colerain's daily routine by preparing lunches for over 1800 students. Miss Lindner, dietician, was credited with the planning of the cafeteria schedule.

Throughout the year the school nurse, Mrs. Jacobs, was on hand to assist those students who required medical attention.

Due to the work of these people and others, CHS was able to function smoothly on a daily basis and thus maintain a high standard of overall management.

Colerain's people behind the scenes

LUNCHROOM STAFF: FIRST ROW: A. Hodeck, N. Eder, H. Phillips, T. Herzog, P. Hullemeyer, F. Sander, M. Aston, E. Focke, J. Ruehrwein. SECOND ROW: M. Hurtwig, H. Schulte, E. Suhr, L. Loth, W. Houghton.

Activity outside the classrooms

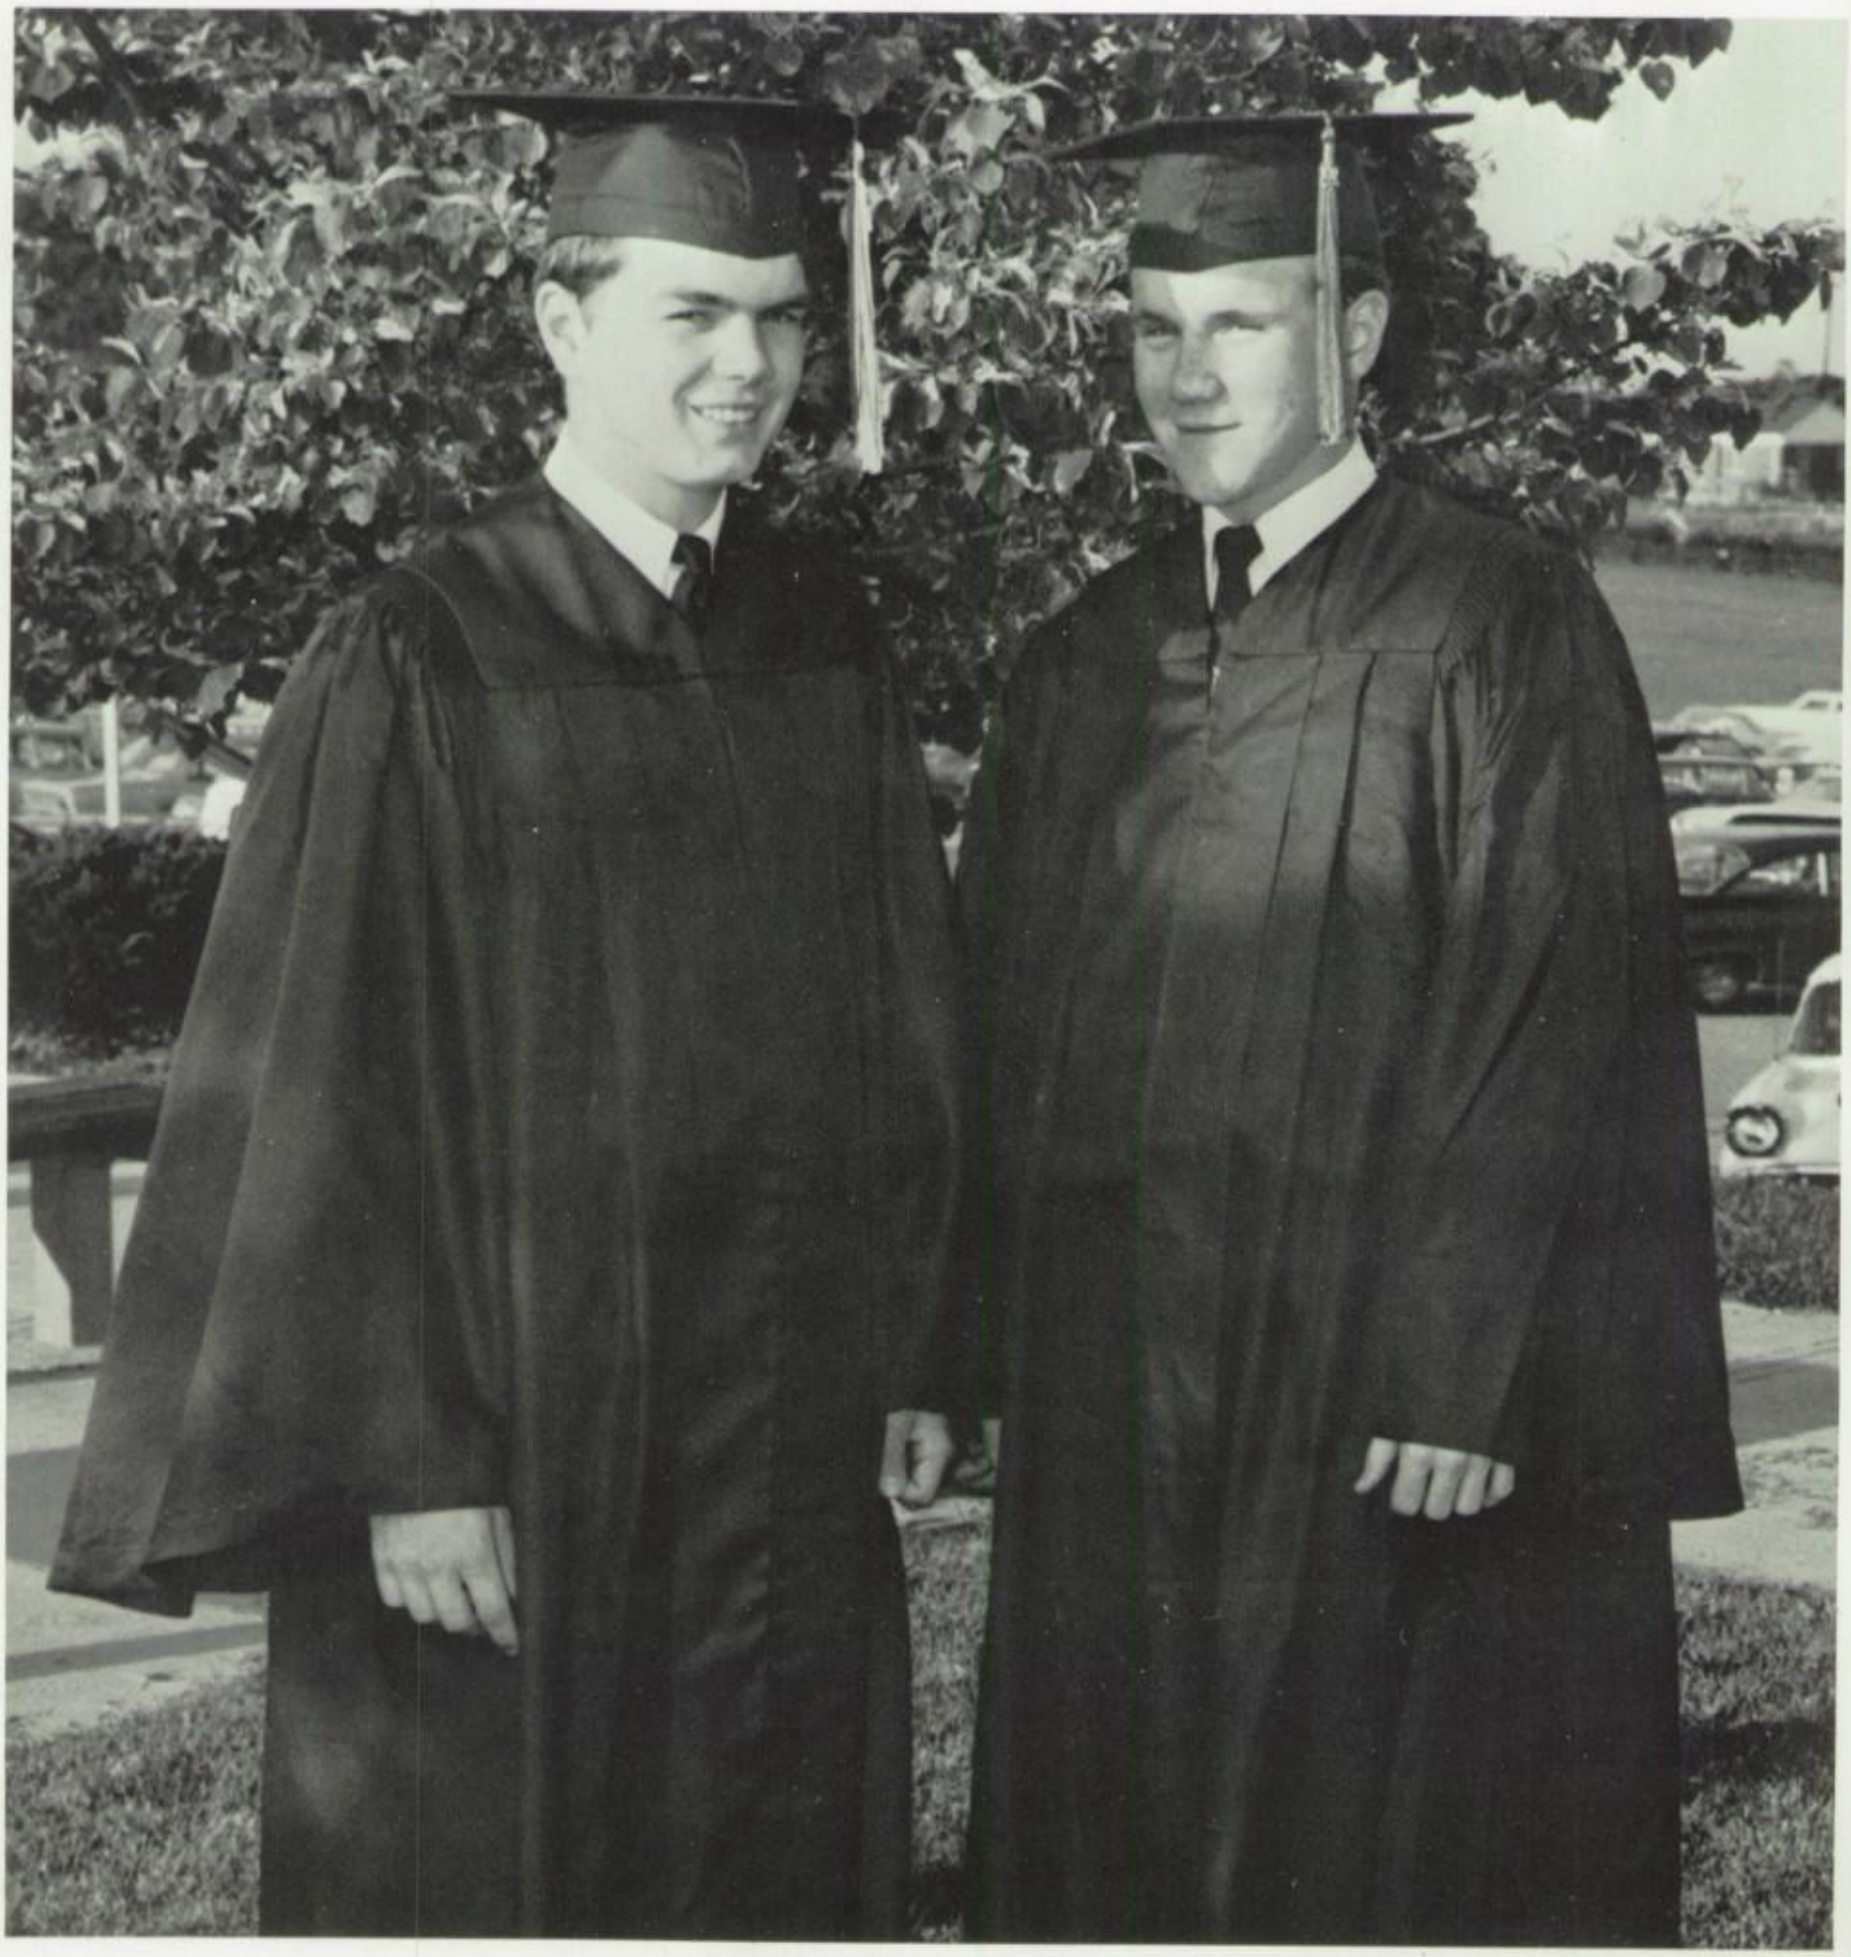
The people who constitute the administration of a school system outside of the classroom are every bit as essential as the teachers themselves. Their work, though often unrecognized, is vital to the total organization of the school. Colerain's hard-working secretaries and Athletic Director have helped to insure CHS the excellent management it enjoys.

Due to such capable people as Mrs. Taylor, Mrs. Ochs, and Mrs. Songer, Colerain's office was in good hands. Their unheralded duties were invaluable to teachers and students alike. In another, but equally important department, Athletic Director Mr. Yerkes spent long hours producing for Colerain one of the finest sports programs in the area. Due to the unselfish work of these people, students were offered fine opportunities through Colerain's Athletic and academic programs.



Fritz Oehlschlaeger and John Pollock

1968 Co-valedictorians

Traditionally, each class at Colerain has one valedictorian and one salutatorian. The class of 1968 was exceptional in the fact that they were led by the first pair of co-valedictorians in the school's history.

Hopelessly deadlocked for first place in their class of over five hundred graduating seniors were Fritz Oehlschlaeger and John Pollock who shared an identical academic average of 3.94 of a perfect 4.0. With their near-perfect scholastic records Fritz and John are to be commended for their academic excellence and their admirable positions of leadership in their graduating class.

Organized under the watchful eyes of Mrs. Alice Pack, the Honor Society was composed of students who had performed with academic excellence. The chief concerns of the organization were the intellectual improvement of its members and the aiding of other students needing assistance in their particular courses of study. The former task was a product of attendance at monthly meetings at which speakers presented various topics for discussion while the latter was done through a tutoring service that proved to be advantageous for all concerned—both tutor and tutored.

It's Academic

Every year each of the Greater Cincinnati area high schools chooses three of its most intelligent students to compete on the television program It's Academic. A series of elimination rounds is held as the teams earnestly contend for the championship.

Colerain's 1968 It's Academic team, under the guidance of Mr. Robert Browning, consisted of Lorre Weidlich, Russ Tarver, and Fritz Oehlschlaeger. In the first match Colerain realized an easy victory, defeating Mt. Orab and Covington Catholic high schools. In the second round the CHS team upset Sycamore but lost to Ft. Thomas High by 20 points. Though out of competition for the grand prize, the team was awarded two sets of encyclopedias for the school library.

National Merit scholars

The National Merit Scholarship Program is conducted by the National Merit Scholarship Corporation, an independent, non-profit organization established in 1955 by grants from the Ford Foundation and the Carnegie Corporation of New York.

The National Merit Scholarship Qualifying Test is taken by secondary school students who wish to compete for Merit Scholarships. The number of Semifinalists is less than one percent of the graduating seniors in a state.

In 1968 Colerain had four students who advanced as far as National finalists in the stiff competition.

The seventh annual Colerain High School Science Fair enabled participants to investigate the various principles of science through extensive projects. The categories in which the projects were judged were: Botany, Chemistry, Mathematics, Earth/Space Science, and Electronics, a new division.

The outstanding leadership of Mr. Warren Dicken assured a well-planned, unified program. After the fair, a formal reception was held. Its highlight was the announcement of Richard Sprague as the 1967-68 Science Fair Grand Award winner. The students and teachers who contributed to the Science Fair procedures are to be commended for an excellent academic program.

Student Council: the students' agent

The windy American Day program needs the aid of Gary Schroeder and Keith Hammitt.

Student Council, by providing a link between the administration and the student body, is one of Colerain's most important clubs. Besides serving as a representation of the students' interests, the club members engaged in many activities during the 1967-'68 school year. Once again they sponsored the foreign exchange student, and held various elections for which registration was mandatory. Additionally, their coordination of the American Day proceedings helped to make that event a success. Student Council adequately served its purpose as the agent of the student body and supervisor of many worthwhile programs.

PRESIDENTS' COUNCIL: FIRST ROW: S. Ferrara, K. Dreihs, B. Rapking, G. Schroeder, N. Patterson, M. Burris, C. Coffey, L. Waslo. SECOND ROW: N. Hoekstra, L. Harper, P. Tedford, D. Hopper, A. Schott, C. Council unites efforts of clubs

In a school as large as CHS, problems occasionally arise in which the leaders of all organizations need to be consulted. For this reason, a council of the presidents of all classes and clubs was formed.

This year, Presidents' Council successfully planned the Christmas assembly for F.E.S. Karl-Heinz Freund. It was through their efforts that Karl was assured a joyous holiday at Colerain. Later the council coordinated the drive to obtain enough money to guarantee Colerain a foreign exchange student for 1969.

Though Presidents' Council met infrequently through the year, their directed efforts eased many difficulties which were beyond the scope of each individual club.

Students aid in enforcing school rules

At Colerain High School it was very unusual to see an unauthorized student walking down an empty hall. This strict enforcement of school rules was the result of certain students whose responsibility it was to aid the administration in the maintaining of order in the halls and the preventing of disturbances during school hours. Hall Monitors, an organization that was originated by the students themselves, was maintained by students who volunteered their study halls to see that no unauthorized person entered Colerain's halls and caused a disturbance. Under the guidance of Mr. Warren Dicken, Hall Monitors helped to remind the students of the necessity of discipline in a school the size of Colerain.

WORLD AFFAIRS: FIRST ROW: S. Hill, B. Capuder, M. Miller, R. Tarver, Y. Janakiefski. SECOND ROW: D. Mayernik, B. Shane, P. Tedford, T. Brown. THIRD ROW: R. Waller, M. Helmer, D. Parker, D. Stark.

World affairs probes current events

World Affairs club enabled students interested in current events on the international level to meet and discuss the world's situations and crises. Their discussions, led by Mr. James Herzog, ranged over a wide variety of topics and led to many diversified suggestions as to how international problems and policies could be improved. The highlight of the year was a speech given by the mayor of Lincoln Heights, a Negro community, who spoke on the problems of his community as related to racial prejudices. Each member of World Affairs received valuable enlightenment on current issues through discussion.

Providing an accurate reflection of Colerain's activities and students was the job of the 1968 CARDINAL staff. Industrious staff members combined inventiveness and effort to make the yearbook an accurate and interesting portrayal of student life. Cropping pictures, laying out pages, writing copy and counting captions were all in a day's work. This year's editor, Cathy Wissinger, worked with her staff under the direction of Mr. Joseph Epplen to produce a CARDINAL to be remembered.

Energetic reporters sought news on every facet of student life; there were also thought provoking editorials and critiques.

Editor Peg Tedford is to be commended for coordinating the activities of page editors, artists, typists, and reporters into an extremely informative and interesting paper.

Under the fine leadership of Mrs. Dorothy Montgomery, members of French Club enjoyed another profitable year. A better understanding of the French people and their language was acquired by different guest speakers and various films. This year French Club also participated in International Week, which was a large success. As last year, the year's activities concluded with a French style picnic.

The Latin language, far from being "dead", manifests itself in French, Spanish, English, and Latin Club. The legacy of Rome was upheld as club members held their annual banquet, complete with togas and Roman delicacies. Colerain witnessed the portrayal of the "bulwark of the Roman Empire"—the gods, the fates, and the family—as Latin Day aptly began International Week. Directed by Mrs. Alice Pack, Latin Club continued to uphold the traditions of this ancient language.

They also presented an assembly for the school, featuring Mr. John Voltz of the Atomic Energy Commission. The club again was responsible for the success of the Science Fair which this year contained 321 projects.

Math Club gave students with special interests and abilities in mathematics an opportunity to increase their knowledge of the subject. Under the direction of Mr. Albert Carver, the members spent sessions advancing their mathematical understanding. They researched problems and theories and then shared their knowledge with the other students in their math classes. Their participation in this club was worthwhile in terms of both personal satisfaction and academic advantage.

Insights to a future in medicine

An interest in medicine and future medical goals was the common factor that formed Health Careers Club. The members enhanced their knowledge in their chosen field through guest speakers, including a nurse, a dentist, a pharmacist, a physical therapist, and a psychiatrist. There was also a field trip in which they were guided through the facilities of Long View State Hospital.

The chief money making project of the year was their annual Valentine Day Candy sale. Under the direction of Miss Rita Stankus, the Health Careers members again participated in the city-wide Health Careers day in which each member could visit a place of the profession of his choice and participate in aiding the professionals.

F.T.A. profits potential teachers

The Future Teachers of America was active in many fields throughout the school year. Under the supervision of Mrs. Elizabeth Mefford, the club members learned many of the fundamentals of the teaching profession through projects which benefited both themselves and the school. The annual winter semi-formal, Teaching Day, and the participation of many F.T.A. members as teachers' aids gave valuable experience to those interested in teaching as a career.

Future Homemakers of America had an active year as the girls developed their skills in home economics. Under the guidance of Mrs. Virginia Brown, F.H.A. sponsored the Mother-Daughter Banquet, an Easter egg sale, and a Cotton Day carnation sale. The girls also promoted Teacher Appreciation Day by giving home-baked cookies to the faculty in the teachers' lounge. The members of F.H.A. furthered their knowledge of domestic abilities by having a baking contest, sewing contest, and a spring fashion show. After a busy year, the Future Homemakers have acquired the necessary fundamentals involved in properly managing a home.

Tejas members find service rewarding

The opportunity to render service to fellow students and the community was found to be rewarding to Tejas members. Their purpose was to promote fellowship and aid the community in which they live. This was carried out by various projects throughout the year, notably during the holidays. At the end of the year, the girls could feel the satisfaction of having belonged to one of Colerain's most useful and productive clubs.

The Future Business Leaders of America began the year by sponsoring F.B.L.A. week. The highlight of the week was the presentation of awards to outstanding business students. "The Midnight Ride," a dance held on Friday night, brought the week to a close. Other events which the club participated in were the F.B.L.A. District Meeting and the F.B.L.A. State Convention in which Colerain was presented four trophies.

The year was concluded with an awards banquet in which new officers took on oath of office and awards were presented to outstanding members of F.B.L.A.

There were two business clubs at Colerain this year which gave students co-op training.

Cooperative Office Education was composed of 25 students selected for their superior grades and attitude. C.O.E. was a vocational program whereby a senior business student went to school in the morning and worked in an office in the afternoon.

Distributive Education Club of America was formed by students interested in employment in distribution. They too attended classes in the morning and worked in the afternoon. This year D.E.C.A. participated in the State Convention in which Ann Wilson was named first runner-up in the State Sweetheart Contest.

Both of these organizations provided the students with practical job education and acquainted them with skills necessary in the business world.

"Serendipity '68" published by Literary Guild

At Colerain a small group of students met regularly to discuss the contemporary works of prominent authors. In addition to their interesting conversations, the Guild produced the 1968 volume of the annual publication containing the literary and artistic works of Colerain students. "Serendipity '68" gave young writers and artists an opportunity to have their works published, read, and judged by their peers. Any Colerain student could anonymously submit his work to the Guild who chose what they considered to be the superior pieces to be included in the publication. The volume was printed by the Graphic Arts Department and was made available to the student body. The publication of this volume was a successful contribution to the intellectual stimulation present at Colerain.

"Be all you can be — Read"

The Colerain High School Library is a busy place—too busy for one person to handle. For this reason the librarian, Mrs. Betty Oehlschlaeger, chooses a group of students each year to assist her.

The Library Assistants have many duties which include distributing library passes in the morning, shelving books, and managing the desk. This year they also built a float for Football Homecoming, had a paperback book sale, and sponsored "Library Week" concurring with "National Library Week." Incorporating the slogan. "Be all you can be—Read" as their theme, the group planned many activities, the highlight of which was a contest to guess the number of students who had obtained library passes during the year.

It was only with the help of this group of students that the library could successfully cater to the needs of Colerain's 2,000 people.

Besides being the champion of the city-wide HI-Y basketball tournament, the HI-Y basketball team was also champion of the Powell Crosley League. The HI-Y members participated in the Youth in Government convention at Columbus by sending two delegates to be a part of the model legislature with other representatives from the state. The members of HI-Y provided ushers for the Open House and took part in the World Service project. Y-Teens excel in community service

The girls in Y-Teens should be commended for their school and community services among which were their annual potato chip sale, their aid in a home for the blind for whom they made Valentine place mats, and their help in the Mt. Healthy Christian Home. The combination of things in which they participated proved as valuable to them as it was to those who received their aid.

Under the sponsorship of Mrs. Pauline Williams, Y-Teens established a valuable appellation for teenagers in the community and did a gratifying job in representing Colerain High School.

Talent provides Art Club's key factor

Jane Boswell's work receives Mrs. Hilliard's evaluation.

The imagination and talent concentrated in Art Club proved rewarding to its members and beneficial to the entire school. The various projects undertaken by the club, which was supervised by Mrs. Margaret Hilliard, gave participants a sense of creative satisfaction. CHS itself also benefited from their work. The displays which graced the building during Christmas and on various occasions throughout the school year were indicative of the skills developed through Art Club.

Through the use of tape recorders, films, slides, and record players, many students were able to gain a better understanding of the subject matter in the classroom. The equipment involved in these various learning aids was handled by the members of Audio-Visual Aids. Their knowledge and ability used in operating the audio-visual aid equipment helped students and teachers alike in the supplementation of regular educational materials. This organization, sponsored by Mr. James Boyd, proved through its service to be beneficial to the school.

Those seeking a mental challenge at Colerain could discover an outlet for their ability in the Chess Club. Membership in the club was available to anyone and a team of the best players was selected through a series of competitive matches. These five boardmen then contended with teams from the other schools in the Greater Cincinnati Chess League.

This year, under the guidance of Mr. Robert Browning, the Colerain Chess Team had a very successful season. They challenged many of the toughest teams in the city and often proved victorious. Because of the ability and dedication of its members the Colerain Chess Team finished quite high in league standings.

"C"-Club's purpose: to bolster spirit of CHS

Students of Colerain who obtain letters in athletic, scholastic, and extra-curricular activities were entitled to membership in "C"-Club. It was the responsibility of this energetic group to keep the spirit of CHS alive.

Under the supervision of Mr. Gerald Hill, "C"-Club was extremely active this year. As soon as school began in the fall, committees were formed, plans were made, and 1967 Football Homecoming became reality. After the successful completion of their first task, "C"-Club continued throughout the year to effectively plan and sponsor Basketball Homecoming and the Spring Sports Festival. By their united effort this active group did much to make 1967-68 a successful year at Colerain.

If the varsity and reserve cheerleaders are indicative of the pep of the CHS student body, school spirit has been well defined at Colerain. Under the direction of Miss Catherine Hooten and Miss Ina Gregory, the girls held frequent practices during which they perfected their cheers and developed cooperation and teamwork. Their activities, however, were not limited to the basketball court and football field. The annual "Ugly Man" contest, under their sponsorship, earned money toward a trip to summer camp, and provided the girls with the opportunity to contribute to the Foreign Exchange Fund. Thanks to the enthusiasm and hard work of the cheerleaders, the meaning of school spirit was properly conveyed to the students of Colerain.

Their talents were not restricted to CHS, however. Their fine routines performed before audiences at Miami and Xavier universities, and participation in various summer parades, brought recognition to the school and a sense of pride to the girls for a job well-done.

The appearance of Colerain's Marching Band on the football field was as familiar a sight as that of the players themselves. This versatile organization, under the direction of Mr. Lee Suman, did much to bring life to CHS' new field, as the strains of "When the Saints Go Marching In" signaled the beginning of many games. Their excellent programs, contrived by the Band Planning Committee, were an integral part of the football season. Teamwork, coupled with long hours of practice, resulted in a fine musical contribution to the fall sports program.

Having participated in a contest for concert bands at Princeton High School, the band brought honor to its school by receiving a commendable "2-rating." Band members also performed a patriotic program at Drake Memorial Hospital on Memorial Day. Fine direction and extensive practice produced a Concert Band of which Colerain could be proud.

Ensemble captures spirit of CHS in music

An interest in singing for enjoyment and a desire to learn more about music combined to make the Colerain Ensemble an active and well-rounded portion of the CHS curriculum. The harsh competition for Ensemble membership was handled by the director, Mr. Michael Hanning. The final forty students were chosen for their musical interest and talent.

The Ensemble was very active this year, participating in more than twenty school and community functions. Among these were the Thanksgiving, Christmas and Spring concerts, and extensive Christmas carolling.

An appreciation for vocal music and valuable canorous skills were gained by the Ensemble members as they worked to capture the spirit of CHS in music.

This year Colerain had two entries in the Annual Competition for High School Chorus at Miami University—the Triple Trio and the Ensemble. The former received the first "1-rating" in the history of Colerain for their outstanding performance in the Class A division. The Ensemble earned an excellent "2-rating" in the Class AA division.

The singing groups were graded on their blend, pitch, and dynamics. Excellent interpretation of the music and overall performance were two factors which enabled the groups to achieve their superb ratings.

Colerain's new scoreboard—will it light up victories?

The Cardinal Athletic Field, a project of the Northwest Boosters, was completed and in excellent playing condition for the opening game of the season against Aiken High School. Mr. Don Aston, president of the Boosters, presented the field in a pre-game dedication ceremony to Mr. Moeller, president of the School Board. Umbrella-laden fans, braving sporadic rain showers, packed the stands to witness this noteworthy presentation—a presentation that was amply satisfied by a varsity season slate of eight victories and two defeats.

Cards capture first league crown

After a close opening game loss to non-league opponent Aiken, Coach Vince Mercure's Cardinal gridders launched a 6-0 blitz over league contenders in their first successful assault on the league crown. The team sandwiched eight consecutive victories between an initial loss and a 30-22 decision in favor of Princeton in their final game. Their 8-2 season scorecard is the best ever posted by a Colerain football squad. This year's team was well-balanced, combining an aggressive, consistent offensive punch with a rugged, determined defensive unit. This combination stood up well under the grueling test of competition, emerging with a 247 to 73 point scoring advantage over their opponents.

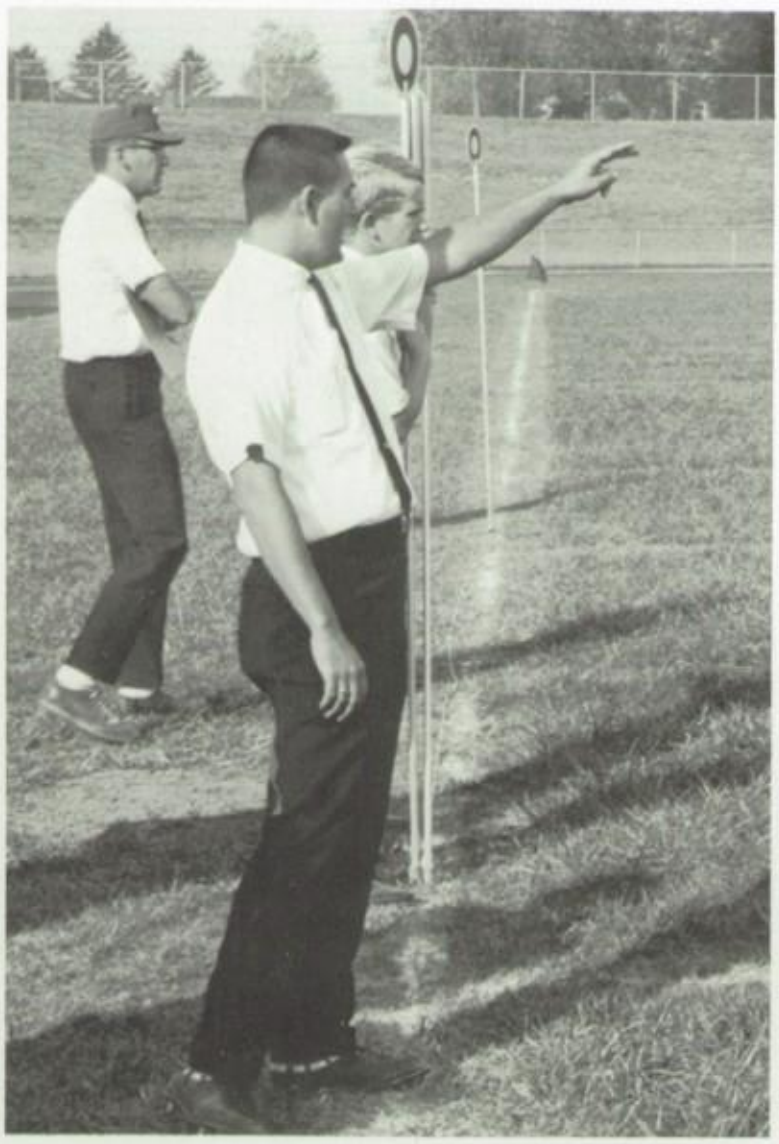
Reserves post even record

Coach Colussi directs the on-field action.



The Colerain reserve football team launched their season by winning four of their first six contests, but then went into a tailspin and finished with a record of 4-4-1. The team showed good offensive and defensive potential, outscoring their opponents 108 to 82. However, the loss of three games by a total of six points emphasized their failure to come through with the big play. The large turnout of over 40 boys should be a valuable asset to next year's varsity eleven.

Rebuilding year disastrous for Harriers

In his first year with the cross country team, Coach Ellert inherited a team crippled by the graduation of its top five starting runners. The depleted varsity stumbled through the first half of the season with a dismal 0-4 record, ranking dead last in the league.

Constant practice builds endurance and strength.

A 4-9 record in the won-lost columns is not a complete indication of the capabilities of the 1968 wrestling team. Several able wrestlers on the team turned in many stalwart individual performances during the season. Unfortunately, the team as a whole was seldom able to put together an overall winning effort. Heavyweight Tex Kilpatrick drew attention to the wrestling team as he stormed through the regular season with 19 pins in 20 matches. Tex continued his winning ways through the tournament and wound up in 8th place in the state. Gary Singer captured 3rd place in the district tournament while Dan Polk and Paul Kirchner both placed first in the league in the 165 and 175 lb. classes.

Although seven of the twelve team members graduate this year, three consistent junior grapplers, Gary Singer, Tim Hasselbeck, and Tim Kuhn will return as the nucleus for next year's team.

Although picked as a pre-season favorite in the league, the 1968 Varsity cagers fell short of the mark. Even so, their 9-5 league scorecard reflected a fine effort as it placed them in a three-way tie for a second place rank in a well-balanced league. In the district tournament they advanced over Mt. Healthy in revenge of an earlier loss, but stumbled under an onslaught by N.C.H. 62-58. During a somewhat erratic season the team played spirited and often brilliant basketball but were unable to sustain consistent winning ways. Due to a preponderance of juniors, most of the squad will return next year, providing a core of experienced players around which to build.

Tennis team registers winning season

Through the able coaching efforts of Mr. Robert Browning and the hard practice and all-around teamwork of the boys, this year's tennis team compiled an admirable 12-3 record. Dominated by seniors, the team improved on the previous year's mediocre record to finish second in league play. Karl-Heinz Fruend, who was the lead singles player, won all but two matches and advanced as far as the semi-finals in district play. By excellent coaching and spirited dedication Colerain's netters produced the best record since the sport began at Colerain seven years ago.

In Mr. Geisen's first year as coach, the Colerain golfers turned out an 8-7 record. Although the team's overall slate did not look impressive, they finished second in league play and placed first in their division of the Hamilton County Suburban League tournament. Steve Wuest, winner of the Most Valuable Golfer award, placed third among 88 competitors in District play. He led his team to third place, finishing just one stroke behind the runners-up. With six lettermen returning, the 1969 team should contain the experience needed to excel in this sport.

Strong hitting, excellent pitching, and a good defense enabled Coach Colussi's Varsity Baseball Team to rack up a remarkable 18-4 record. With hard practice every day the players developed their skills and were able to overcome many obstacles en route to the HCSL co-championship. After two victories in District play the Cards were eliminated from the tournament by a 2-1 score. Four Colerain players were picked for the Hamilton County American League All-Star team. They were: Chuck Graf, Mike Heizman, Carl Leveridge, and George Fessler. Three others received Honorable Mention. Orientation: introduction to last challenge

"Guten Tag" from exchange student Karl Freund.

In the education of many students, the beginning of high school marks the final challenge of a twelve year career. The planning of an excellent orientation program gave Colerain's incoming sophomores a head start in meeting this challenge. A tour of the building, a pep assembly, and the displays of the school's clubs and organizations gave the students a glimpse of high school life, and answered many of their questions concerning the management of the building.

The sophomores came away with a more assured comprehension of the high school system, and felt more prepared to make the most of the last stretch of their educational careers.

During the 1967-68 school year, CHS greeted Karl-Heinz Freund, a native of Germany, as the school's fourth American Field Service foreign student. Karl's active participation in school events and his outgoing personality readily won him the friendship of students and respect of teachers. With the Bachman family hosting his visit, Karl gained an aspect of American family life as well as school life. Karl-Heinz's visit proved beneficial to both himself and the students with whom he came in contact.

1967 FOOTBALL HOMECOMING QUEEN: DEBBIE HOPPER

Homecoming, 1967:

A rousing victory, an array of floats, and a radiant queen each proved a contributing factor to the success of Football Homecoming. The various committees, under the supervision of chairman Lynn Gohman, united their efforts to produce one of Colerain's best homecoming programs.

During the half-time of a 20-0 triumph over Oak Hills, the festivities were begun with the announcement of the winning floats. G.A.A.'s "Esso" entry received first honors, followed by Marching Band's "Tiger Paw" and "Smokey the Bear," representing Spanish Club.

Then the anxious moment was at hand. Senior Debbie Hopper was awarded the title of 1967 Football Homecoming Queen and was crowned by last year's queen, Linda Johnston.

C-Club's traditional Homecoming dance, featuring "The Crooked Mile," completed the program. Homecoming, 1967 proved to be an enjoyable experience for participants and spectators alike, as well as the perfect highlight of a victorious football season.

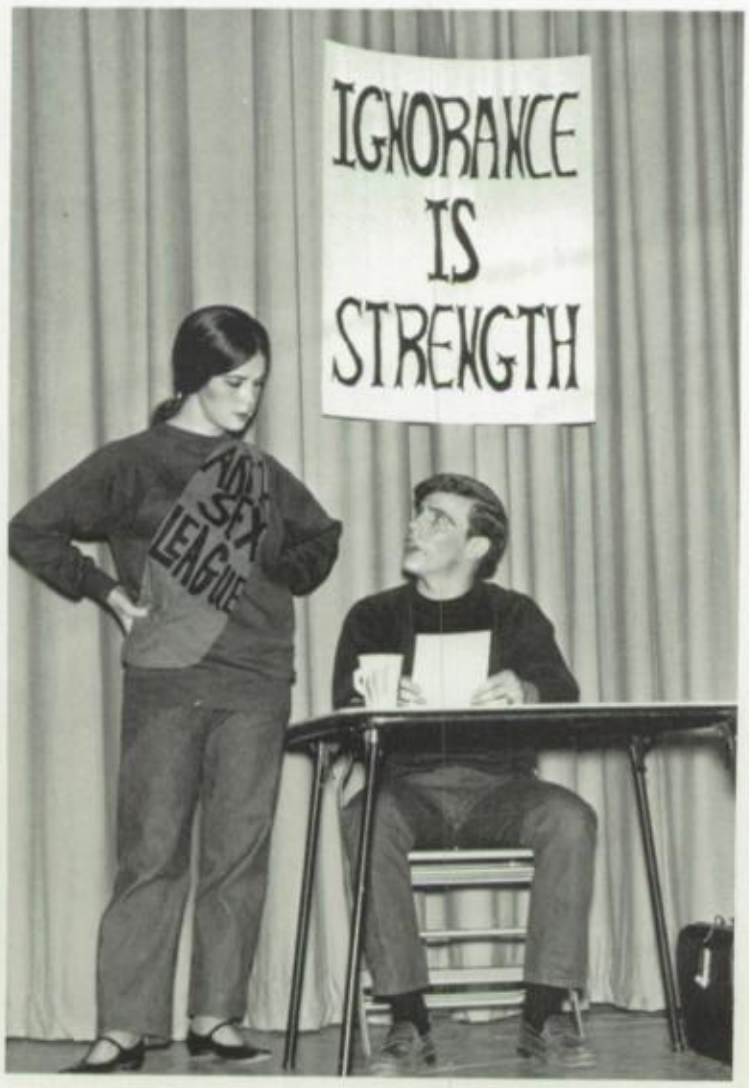
Two forces are joined to combat Big Brother.



The opportunity to project characterization through dramatics provides a most ample form of expression. CHS speech students were given the opportunity as they presented their fall play. Due to the careful supervision of Mrs. Bullock and the united effort of all involved, George Orwell's 1984 came to life on the Colerain stage. Spectators were treated to an evening of suspense-filled entertainment, while the participants felt the satisfaction for a job well done.

"So they got you too, Syme?"

Colerain dramatists present Father of the Bride

A successful play depends, not on any one individual, but on all the factors and persons which combine to create the final production. Father of the Bride, Colerain's spring play, was a fine example of such teamwork. Everyone, from the lead players to the backstage workers, spent hours perfecting their separate roles which led to a well-planned, unified show. As student director, Nancy Schaefer took complete charge of the rehearsals when Mrs. Bullock was unable to attend. Randy Knox's performance as Mr. Banks earned him recognition as the drama department's outstanding actor of the year.

C-Club President Ed Adams and Student Council President Gary Schroeder wish Foreign Exchange Student Karl-Heinz Freund a Merry Christmas with a Colerain jacket.

Cheerfulness and gaiety were the prevailing moods at CHS during the Christmas season, as the building was adorned with Christmas trees, various window displays, and a bright decorative star. The happiness of the holiday season was also paralleled by the traditional events which characterize Christmas. The offering of a gift by each club helped to make Karl Freund's American Christmas a memorable one. Tradition was also upheld by the annual Christmas assembly, presented by the chorus, and F.T.A.'s semi-formal dance, over which Karl Freund and Lana Aston reigned.

The participation and enthusiasm of the student body resulted in a spirit of gaiety and tradition during the holiday season.

MIKE MARINGER

An abundance of ugliness dominated the halls at Colerain during the week of February 12. Eleven obnoxious male students spent the week springing upon unsuspecting students, beseeching them to part with their money. The "uglies" managed to "beg, borrow, or steal" a grand total of $522. This money was used to send the cheerleaders to summer camp and some was also contributed to the Foreign Exchange Student Fund.

On Friday, February 16, there was an assembly in which each of the eleven candidates was escorted into the gymnasium by his cheerleader sponsor. Amid excited applause Mike Maringer was crowned Imperial Ugliness of 1968 by cheerleader captain, Carol Coffey.

Spring Sports Festival highlights queen, court, competition

Three factors combined to produce the 1967-68 Spring Sports Festival: the queen, her court, and the competition of the eight schools which participated in the track meet. The opening ceremonies culminated in Linda Hamner's reception of the Spring Sports Queen title. Following these festivities the meet was held, in which Colerain ranked in the upper division, placing fourth.

The cold weather and strong winds were surmounted as the Spring Sports Festival aptly highlighted the season.

An event that occurs every three years at Colerain is International Week. During the week of March 18-22 the foreign language club members and their sponsors brought the customs, music, and atmosphere of their languages to school.

The famous second-hand book stalls, a puppet theatre and a French pastry shop lined the streets of an imaginary Paris on Tuesday.

From the time one entered the front door on Wednesday it was evident that the Spanish had invaded Colerain. The traditional bullfight captured the spotlight. Street markets with typical senoritas displayed their goods in the front lobby. The music truly provided a finishing touch to the

A small boat left on Thursday for a journey down the Rhine River. Folk songs could be heard from neighboring towns along the shore. Students visited the German cafés and even joined in a few choruses of the German folk songs.

On American day a flag program was scheduled to be given by the Student Council of Whitehall Yearling High School of Columbus, Ohio. This assembly had to be postponed to a later date. In addition there was to be a presentation of the flags of the countries that have been represented by the students in the American Field Service program at Colerain.

Colerain's Class of 1968 held its Senior Prom at the Hotel Alms—the culmination of nine months of vigorous planning and preparation. The Prom Committee, led by Chairman Debbie Hutson, began their work in September by choosing the theme "Wonderland by Night." Using a Japanese motif, the Marie Antoinette Ballroom was tastefully decorated for the occasion. Music was provided by the Denny Heglin Band. At midnight Gary Schroeder and Carol Coffey were crowned Prom King and Queen and danced alone to the class song "Love is Blue."

Class night: a display of talent

Cast members applaud their directors as they call them to the stage for an encore.

Class Night 1968 was, as those preceding it, an evening of fun entertainment presented by the graduating senior class. Emceed by class President Mike Dann, the variety show presented folk singers, dancers, a barbershop quartet, and a take-off on the TV program "Laugh-In." After the show there was a short awards ceremony climaxed by the announcement of Gary Schroeder and Carol Coffey as the All-American Boy and Girl. The Class Night presentation was directed by Mrs. Jeanne Hufman, Mrs. Rebecca Deckard, and Mr. Kenneth Hacker who gave much of their time to make the show a success.

Baccalaureate and Commencement:

On June 2, the 1968 graduating class solemnly gathered in the gymnasium for the Baccalaureate services preceding their commencement exercises. The religious service, which was begun with a choral invocation presented by the Colerain Ensemble, had as its speaker Rev. Jerry Kirk of the College Hill Presbyterian Church. Rev. Kirk spoke to the five hundred member class about his hope that this generation will build not the barriers to prevent but the bridges necessary to prompt favorable changes in the present social system. Following a choral benediction the valedictorians led their class in the recessional.

On June 4 the Class of 1968 held its Commencement exercises in the high school gymnasium. Following a short prayer by Rev. Herbert G. Lisle of the Trinity Lutheran Church, Co-valedictorians Fritz Oehlschlager and John Pollock spoke to the five hundred members of their class. Then Principal Ross H. Fleming presented the class to Superintendent Edmond Hammond, who, with the assistance of Gary Schroeder and Mike Heizman, President and Vice-President of Student Council, presented each senior with his diploma. The climax of the evening came when all five hundred students switched their tassels to the right and were officially declared graduates of Colerain High School. It was with a great deal of pride and excitement that the Class of 1968 left the gym for the last time.

School spirit, an intangible yet visible force, has come to describe student life at Colerain.

Afterword

Colerain High School is 2,000 people. In 1968, each one has taught us in some small way—by leading us to wisdom in the classroom, by showing us the strength of determination on the gridiron, by instilling in us the importance of self-commitment. By their actions they have taught us either the significance of dedication or the sin of indifference. We have learned from each other. The 1968 CARDINAL is dedicated to these 2,000 people. The staff has worked hard and we sincerely hope that we have presented an accurate picture of student life in 1968. And so the 1968 CARDINAL, published for the people of Colerain High School, comes to an end.
